A "albatross motor" has nothing whatever to do with Coleridge or the Ancient Mariner, and a "Minerwerfer" is not, as some persons may think, a particular species of odoriferous cheese or a national German beverage. Both of them are merely specimens of the exhibits on the trophy car that came into Salem Wednesday afternoon in the interests of the victory loan. There were dozens of other curious articles with strange names, but I just happened to remember those in particular because up till then the word "albatross" always gave me a poetic feeling and "minerwerfer" made me hungry. They won't anymore. They'll make me think of a hot spring day and the long line of people stretching like an oddly colored ribbon down Commercial street, waiting very patiently in the glaring sun, for their turns to see the German trophies in the cars ahead. And the boy cadets with their bayonets on their shoulders, pacing up and down as solemnly as though it were the left bank of the river Rhine they were guarding instead of a trolley line on which at odd intervals a sleepy car hopped lazily by. There really isn't much else to be reminded of, because they hurried on through the main car so swiftly that when you emerged into the sun again, a brief moment after entering, your brain was nothing but a delicious jumble of queer shaped metal things, and a brown eyed soldier with a blue service stripe and jaunty overseas cap who kept reminding you to "speed up" and contrasting himself (man-like) in the next breath by telling you not to "crowd."

The worst of it was that one half of your precious half minute was taken up in a long drawn gasp at the wax figures at the entrance; ghostly figures in blue-grey uniform, ugly squarish hats crumpled low on ugly squarish heads, and all the figures slumping forward as though they were too weary to stand in the stuffy car any longer and were quite tired of being stared at by so many pairs of curious American eyes.

It wasn't so bad at the open flat cars. There were over so many interesting things, to look at if one could get close enough—which one never could—and another brown eyed soldier with two gold service stripes was relating some fearfully exciting experiences which would, no doubt, have been very interesting if one could have got near enough to have heard him. It was all extremely educational and one has the satisfaction now of knowing what a "minerwerfer" looks like. Besides which there is that whole row of brand new freckles across ones nose (sweet remembrance of the long wait in the sun) and the perfectly enjoyable nightmare of the following night in which one stumbled frantically over shell torn fields pursued by hordes of grey clad men with ugly squarish hats crushed low over ugly squarish heads, until one came to a screaming stand-still in front of a group of ghostly figures slumping wearily forward, with open eyes and parted lips like the lips and eyes of men just dead.

I wouldn't have missed it all for worlds!

Following the organ concert at the First Congregational church last Tuesday evening, the members of the Tuesday Musical club were informally entertained at the home of Professor and Mrs. T. S. Roberts on South 14th street. William Robinson Boone, organist, was the guest of honor and owing to an immediate engagement in Silverton, Kathryn Cryzier Street, soloist, was unable to be present. Prettily arranged daffodils formed artistic decorations and delicious refreshments were served. The guest list included all the members of the club and the guest of honor.

Mrs. W. C. Hawley, wife of Congressman Hawley, who returned recently with her husband from Washington, D. C., has arrived in Salem after a visit with her father in Albany. Mrs. Hawley plans to accompany her husband to Douglas county on his ten days' business trip after which she will be in Salem until the congressman is called to Washington for the special session of congress. A host of Salem friends are waiting to receive her and she will, no doubt be the inspiration of various social functions during her brief stay in the Capital city.

Oswald West, former governor and candidate for United States senator, left during the past week for San Francisco on matters of business. Mr. West recently arranged the deal by which the Pacific Telephone Co. took over the Home Telephone company of which Mr. West was receiver.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kogneke on North 19th street was the scene of a merry surprise party Thursday evening in honor of Sergeant Charles Kuhnke, who has lately returned from France. A very enjoyable evening was passed and dainty refreshments were served at a late hour. Those present were Miss Helen Rieck, Miss Helen Hartwig, Miss Hulda

Schultz, Miss Erna Krefz, Miss Minna Kuhnke, Miss Bertha Kuhnke, Miss Lena Koencke, Mrs. O. Empp, Julius Beckman, A. Gansley, Herman and Arnold Rieck, E. Hoffman, C. Krefz, Charles Kuhnke and E. Schabacker.

Salem music lovers are sorely having it made up to them for all the time that was lost during the fall and early winter. One musical treat after another has been given them and instead of growing weary they seem to be more enthusiastic than ever before.

The Tuesday Musical club has done it a great deal of honor and the eternal thanks of countless persons of the city for the wonderful concert they sponsored last Tuesday evening at the First Congregational church. It can be truthfully stated that William Robinson Boone is one of the greatest organists that any of these present have been privileged to hear. He is nothing short of a genius and the wonderful way in which he brought home to his audience the message that the great composers meant to portray, was nothing short of marvelous.

Kathryn Cryzier Street, popular contralto of Portland, who assisted him, has endeared herself forever to those who heard her. Her voice is one of such rare beauty that once heard it is never forgotten.

Altogether, the concert last Tuesday evening was one of the choicest ever rendered in the Capital city.

Financially the club did exceedingly well by giving the concert. Over one hundred and thirty dollars was realized from ticket sales and admissions, and after all expenses are paid, between fifty and sixty dollars will be left to give to the Armenian relief fund. The members of the Tuesday Musical club worked hard to make the concert a success in every way. The largest sale of tickets was accomplished by Miss Beatrice Shelton, who collected about thirty five dollars. Mrs. Bertha Junk Darby and Miss Shelton constituted the arrangement committee. They were tireless in their efforts to have everything in proper readiness for the recital and Mr. Boone gave them a word of special thanks not praise for the happy conditions under which he had to play.

The fact that the program began a half hour late was lamentable to the club who wish to pride themselves in being on time. Friends took Mr. Boone for a short drive before the program and too much time elapsed before they realized it.

Mrs. S. P. Kimball entertained the members of the Sweet Briar club Thursday afternoon. The rooms were prettily decorated with dainty spring flowers, a delicate note of varying shades being carried out. The usual business proceedings of the club were carried on and an enjoyable afternoon of sewing and social talk was passed culminating with dainty refreshments at the tea hour. Thirteen members of the club were present with Mrs. Harry Webb of Dallas, Mrs. Luella Darby of Salem and Mrs. William Patrick as additional guests.

The Sweet Briar club will meet on the 17th with Mrs. O. E. Moll.

Mrs. Caroline Selee and Mrs. J. Miles have been selected as delegates from the Salem chapter P. E. O. Sisterhood to attend the annual convention to be held in Eugene during the latter part of May. Mrs. Ora Benson, a member of Portland has been chosen soloist for the convention. Mrs. Seeburger is president of chapter P of the P. E. O. Sisterhood.

In spite of the fact that a number of American soldiers who have been stationed in England are marrying English girls, there still remains an overwhelming majority who prefer their own countrywomen. As a proof of this, various persons in Salem have received copies of a song the Yankee sailors are singing while they anxiously await the joyful tidings of their turn to sail for the homeland. It bears the lengthy title, "Favorite Way of Bidding Farewell to England" and perhaps it may be well to tell you that some of the most emphatic verses have been omitted. Perfectly legitimate and all that, but a trifle too—well, patriotic—for this column.

Good bye, old England, good bye,
I couldn't like you if I'd try
I've been here too long
So I'm singing this song
To tell you, old England, good bye.

Good bye, old England, good bye,
If I had to stay here I'd die
I came to your aid
That's the reason I stayed
But now, old England, good bye.

Good bye, old England, good bye,
Your chin is a trifle too high
Your Tommies can fight
But your girls are a fright
So good bye, old England, good bye.

Good bye, old England, good bye,
I think I'm a reasonable guy
I've made you my friend
But the war's at an end
So good bye, old England, good bye.
Good bye, old England, good bye,
Your scenery can't satisfy
You're not quite the worst
But—America first!
So good bye, old England, good bye.
P.S.—Please note that third verse.
And it really is a shame that I couldn't publish the last verse. It was great!

The Young Ladies Sodality of St. Joseph's church will hold their usual monthly meeting after early services tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Fullerton, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Davis and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kuriz entertained the Tillamook club last evening at one of the most enjoyable parties of the season. The affair, which was held in the Masonic Temple, took the form of a hard time party and the ridiculous decorations of brocoli and kale, interspersed with crepe paper done into outlandish patterns, achieved a wholly desirable effect. A unique feature of the evening's entertainment was the serving of the refreshments. A keg of cider and a supply of doughnuts were passed from guest to guest on a miniature express wagon in lieu of a tea tray. Only members of the Tillamook club were present.

Little Miss Ardene Ross was hostess at a pretty party last Saturday at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brookins, north of Salem. The occasion was the seventh anniversary of the little lady's birthday and a dainty birthday cake with the proper number of candles gave pleasing evidence of the fact. Seven little girl friends were Miss Ardene's guests at the affair.

Miss Maxine Abst was hostess at a farewell party last Wednesday evening, given in honor of Miss Lucille Thompson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Thompson, who left today for Portland where she will attend Miss Catlin's school. Dancing and games were enjoyed by the following guests: Frances Ward, Mona Schaum, Mary West, Mable Simpson, Florence Elgin, Elsie Victor, Maxine Abst, Rita Alkire, Bernice Kirkwood, Luette Thompson, Shirley Barklyte, Virgil Busey, Reginald Busey, Max Moon, Harold Moon, Melbourne Radcliffe, Frank Reinhardt, Leroy Nixon and Saul Janz.

The names of a number of prominent Salem women appear on the committees appointed by Mrs. F. M. Wilkins of Eugene, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Wilkins has outlined for this year a scope of activity for wider than the daughters of the state have ever yet attempted. She has named on each committee a group of women prominently associated with the civic, patriotic and educational work of the state, who will carry out the elaborate program of the state organization, based upon reconstruction lines. Important among the branches of activity for the year will be the committee of American citizenship. The personnel of the committees follow.

SALTS IN HOT WATER CLEARS PIMPLY SKIN
Says We Must Make Kidneys
Clean The Blood And Pimples Disappear.

Pimples, sores, and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood thru the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body. It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.
