Two Salem Boys Helped In Mine-Laying Feat

Oliver C. Michaels, a Salem boy whose home is at 1345 Saginaw street, sends his mother a clipping from the Chicago Tribune, telling of the remarkable mine-laying feat of Yankee ships and sailors. It is of local interest because young Michaels and Harold H. Smith, the latter now discharged from service, were members of the crew of the Quinborough mentioned in the article, and took part in the great work of that vessel.

Fort Monroe, Va., Jan.—Lying at anchor off old Point Comfort in Hampton roads tonight is the United States mining cruiser squadron whose commander and crew performed what is now recorded by all naval authorities as "the greatest naval offensive of the world over."

The feat which these men achieved was the mining of the entrance to the North Sea, from Scotland to the coast of Norway, a distance of 240 miles. It was an undertaking unprecedented in naval history.

It was America's solution of the German submarine problem, a solution so thorough and effective that it rendered the German submarines almost impotent.

The British previously mined the English channel, but the enemy submarines came out from the bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge and into the North Sea, there to work their havoc.

Invites Yankee Aid.

The British naval authorities, realizing late in 1917 that the North Sea would have to be blocked, invited the American navy, having just at that time completed with successful experiments on mining apparatus far more dangerous, delicate and powerful than any heretofore used, took up the task.

For that purpose the mining cruiser squadron was organized in December, 1917. This squadron is made up of ten vessels, and is under the command of Captain R. B. Beikamp, U. S. N. The leading ships are the old San Francisco and Baltimore, which are the only original fighting craft in the squadron, the San Francisco having performed famous duty at Manila bay in 1898. The other eight vessels are the Aroostook, Shawmut, Carondelet, Roanoke, Canadagua, Hoosatonie, Quinborough and the Saratoga. These formerly were merchant vessels, and were fitted up by the navy for mining.

One of the commanding officers, lingering at one of the hotels here tonight, told a brief but graphic story of the desperately dangerous job to which he and his squadron mates were assigned.

"Navy men now call it the great offensive of the war," he said. "It solved the submarine problem, and it might have been the agency for the destruction of the German navy sooner or later had not the war ended when it did. We mined almost directly across

BIG GAME HUNTING LURES AMERICAN SPORTSMEN TO THE FAR NORTH

Crow Time in a Cassiar Hunting Camp

The End of a Perfect Day

Thirteen American hunters of big game went into the Cassiar District of British Columbia during 1918, and came out well satisfied. J. Frank Gallbreath, who outfits most of the Cassiar hunting parties, made a record of the game killed last year and the official measurements thereof. This record shows the total as 15 moose, 25 caribou, 16 goats, 21 sheep and six bears. That means a moose to every gun and two caribou to each hunter with but one exception.

Two of the hunters were women—and city dwellers at that—and their records are something to brag about. Mrs. Miller, of Salt Lake City, brought down one moose, two caribou and two sheep, while Mrs. Mead of Chicago, bagged one moose, two from Bergen on the coast of Norway to the coast of Scotland. The length of the mine field was 240 miles, and we made it 25 miles wide. It was so complete that no ship could pass, whether over it or under it, without absolute destruction.

Got Twenty U-Boats.

"We have a record of about twenty submarines that we know were destroyed, and often in running parallel with the field we came upon the bodies of dead German sailors, so probably many more than we figured out were destroyed."

"Our men, in fact the entire fleet, faced a constant danger of being blown off the face of the seas, for we carried on the ships 2,000,000 pounds of T. N. T. which is the most powerful explosive known. One little slip at any man's hands might have started it. Each time we put to sea we expected never to come back, and the soldiers in the hospitals along the coast of Scotland used to make bets with each other of ten to one that we would be destroyed within a certain length of time."

Exposed to Germans.

"Despite all this we kept at the task, and at the end of five months had completed it. We stayed constantly on the inside of the field, that is, on the side between the Orkney islands and Scotland for our own passage out."

"Our most dangerous task, strangely, was not the laying of the mines, dangerous as that was. The most dangerous one came after the mine field was completed. It was an attempt to draw the German fleet out into the North Sea where we were to engage it, so the British fleet could get in behind the enemy to destroy by gunfire or drive it into the mine field."

Lure German Fleet.

"On October 29th last the British government made it known to the German naval authorities through its agents in Germany that we were engaged in mining operations, we were ordered to lay about as though busy at that task, to act as a decoy for the German fleet. We did it, but in doing it, we faced positive destruction ourselves."

"Had the German fleet come out, it would have driven us upon our own mines, for it would have been impossible for us to engage them until the British and American fleets got in behind them and then to have gotten through our narrow passageway at Pentland Firth. In fact, that was never thought of. All our men knew that if the Germans came forth from their lair, we were gone and that was all there was to it."

Frankies Now "Gobs."

"I want to hunt it these new lads, there were about 4500 of them, and 250 officers on the ships, and white we waited through that fearful day which we never expected to see the end of alive, they went about their duties, laughing, singing and stood to their guns as only American lads can do such things."

"Well, all that day we worked along calmly, watching and waiting for the sight of the Germans that meant certain death. The Germans never came out after us, so here we are."

"Well the Germans never came out, and our ships are lying over there," and he swept his arm out towards Hampton Roads to the southwest of old Point Comfort, where the warships which might have been ghost ships, may be seen dimly."

STAYTON NEWS NOTES

(Capital Journal Special Service.)

Stayton, Or., April 12.—Tuesday, the 8th, was the 19th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miesler, the 10th birthday of their son, Gale, and also the birthday of Mrs. Everett Gardner. To celebrate the events, a party of friends were invited to the Miesler home. J. R. Gardner acted as domestic, and retired the nuptial knot. The evening was passed very pleasantly and the refreshments much enjoyed. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Nelbert, Alva Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Luthy and daughter.

Frank Rohwela of Jordan Valley, southeast of Stayton, already possessed of a large amount of land, added to his holdings recently by the purchase of the William Brotherton place, adjoining his own, containing over 140 acres. The deal was made by George A. Smith. Mr. Smith also engineered the transfer of the Nelbert place in the Waldo Hills to C. Forrester.

C. H. Baldwin, who has been living on the ranch near the cemetery, has moved to Grants Pass.

Miss Maryann Alexander entertained a number of friends at her home Tuesday evening. Games and music were indulged in until a late hour and the young people unite in proclaiming it a very pleasant event. Brick tea cream, cake and chocolate were served. Those present were Misses Casselia and Clara Mielke, Wava Brown, Silvia Sostak, Ruth Roy, Gladys Hamman, Caryl Buble, Measra, Edward Warren, John Clark, Edwin Keech, Carl Buble, Norval Fisher, Roy Follis, Edward Bell and Leo Willing. Miss Alexander was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Frances Parry.

Mrs. Myrtle Sullivan, daughter of William Grier, died in the Oregon City hospital April 7th, of pneumonia. She was born in Indiana and was 36 years of age. She leaves besides her husband and five children, her parents, one brother and one sister. The funeral services were held Wednesday, conducted by Rev. Warren, and interment made in Kings alley cemetery near Mill City. Ed Hamman and family have motored to Turner to reside.

Lieut. Stanley L. Stewart, formerly cashier of the Farmers & Merchants bank, was visiting his many Stayton friends Thursday. He has received his discharge from the army and expects soon to take up civilian life. He is considerably disappointed that he did not get to "go across," but was kept busy in Washington and Baltimore army camps.

Howard and Charles Ransome of Turner and Anusville, have bought the store formerly owned by Blatchford Bros. of Shelburn.

The many friends of J. J. Barnes heretofore were sorry to learn of his death at his home near Salem Sunday. Mr. Barnes lived near Stayton for a number of years, and made many friends. He was 72 years of age. The funeral was held at Seio Tuesday where he was laid to rest beside his wife, and where he lived for many years before locating near Stayton. He leaves a son, J. H. and a daughter, Miss Nellie Barnes.

Alexander W. Smith visited the first of the week with his brother in Seio. Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols are occupying the Baker farm west of town. Mrs. Nichols was formerly Miss Anna Baker.

The home of Andy Rieger, in the east part of town, came very near being destroyed by fire Thursday morning. Mr. Rieger was in the grove near the house cutting wood, and no one in the house. James Archer, who happened to be passing, noticed smoke pouring out, and called Mr. Rieger. Together they worked hard and put out the flames. It seems that the fire had started in a wood-box close to the wall, and the paper was burned off from two rooms. The fire was checked in time to prevent much further damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Benneman, residents here about twenty years ago, have returned to make Stayton their home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Jones and son, Harry, saw home from a visit to Mrs. Jones brother, Cleas Holt, at Camp Lewis. He is now at home on a furlough.
