MILLION NEW HOMES NEEDED TO OFFSET WAR CONSTRUCTION SLUMP

Labor Department Figures Show Demand Greatest In History.

Washington, April 16. (United Press).—One million new houses and apartments are needed throughout the country, the department of labor estimated today.

The war caused such a slackening of the building industry in everything except war essentials that the demand for homes is now the greatest in the history of the country, officials stated. Reports up to April 10 show this demand is being met only slowly, probably due to the uncertainty of the prices of nearly all building materials.

Shortage In General. Returns have been received from several hundred localities by the public works and construction division of the labor department and in every one of them except a few where houses were built by the government for war needs, a shortage of housing is reported. Complete returns have not yet been received and the one million estimate may be slightly increased when all are in.

These figures are not much than in most other localities when compared with the population.

Before the war, between 300,000 and 400,000 dwelling apartments were built yearly but during the war the annual figures, exclusive of those built by the government, was cut down to about 25,000 for the whole country. This situation, with the fact that people, enriched by war wages, are demanding more accommodation is responsible for crowded conditions, labor department officials state.

Loan Banks Planned. "Own your home," campaigns are being conducted in many cities with the view of having people put their higher war wages into building new homes. Opinion, however, seems to be that prices must be lowered and stabilized before much of the building will get underway.

To assist in home building, the labor department plans to ask the next congress to establish a system of home loan banks to loan money for building homes, just as the farm loan banks now loan money on farms.

A tentative draft of a bill provides that the home loan banks shall be formed out of the new private home loan and building associations. Whenever ten of these associations in one district, with aggregate assets of not less than $5,000,000, agree to associate themselves and accept the regulations, one of the home loan banks shall be formed.

Seattle Attorney Admits Graft In Aiding Draft Men

Seattle, Wash., April 15.—Admitting he received more than $2000 from drafted men for filling out questionnaires and preparing affidavits to help them to avoid military service and declaring he "always hated England," John W. Arelander, Seattle attorney, has before the state board of law examiners today on charges filed to disbar him from practice of law. Two other Seattle attorneys also will be called before the board.

The disbarment proceedings were started on information obtained by federal intelligence officers. With the signing of the armistice the army authorities were barred from taking action against the lawyers for violating the selective service regulations.

Arelander is said to have admitted to the bar examiners he received $1500 from fifty men already in the army whom he charged $30 each, $100 from whom he advised about registering for the draft; $2000 for preparing 200 affidavits for aliens who had taken out first citizenship papers. He also said he charged drafted men $100 each for representing them before the district board.
