beyond the Rhine, marched through Los Angeles today.

There were 1176 men and 38 officers of the 24th infantry, a part of the famous 91st division.

Near the head of the line was carried the regimental banner inscribed "St. Mihiel-Argonne-Lys-Scheidt"—an inscription won in four hard fights which made the 91st division a nightmare in German dreamland.

The men arriving today came on a three section train, the last section of which arrived shortly before 9 o'clock.

All Wear Medals. Oakland, Cal., April 22.—(United Press).—The smoking compartment of the officers' car of the 363rd was crowded on the trip from Sacramento last night with what remained of the unit's officers. From the breast of every man of the remaining heroes of the Argonne dangled a decoration. They glittered in the light of a candle that flickered on a soap dish.

"How did you get that?" asked an inquisitive reporter, pointing at a distinguished service cross on the breast of Harold K. Bolin, a sergeant major, whose home is in Wenatchee, Wash.

Bolin blushed, but the other officers laughed and told him to tell his story.

"Well, the report reads like this," he said. "Seventy-two hours on duty without sleep, under fire. The Lys-Scheidt drive in Belgium, October 1. An intelligent sergeant wounded. Machine gun fire.

"I happened to go out and pick him up. Hit myself. Ordered to the rear. I was only out a couple of hours. Remained on duty. He was pretty badly shot up."

Portlanders Won Cross. Captain F. S. Sever, 561 Davenport street, Portland, wore a like cross.

"How did you get it, captain?" the reporter asked.

The captain began boyishly to talk about his ankle. Lieutenant G. H. Lindberg, 222 North J street, Tacoma, broke in:

"He is the commander of the third battalion," said Lindberg. "He got that by taking command of a strange battalion in conjunction with its own when its officers were wiped out. He went in with 800 men and came out with 400. That's how hot the shooting was."

"Later he was eating breakfast in a shell hole. A gas shell broke near him, and he went blind on the spot—for three days. But he kept on giving orders. They finally carried him back under protest. On the way to the hospital another shell exploded near him. It rapped his legs a bit."

The reporter spied Captain W. M. Ackley, 677 E. 1st street, Portland.

"Tell me about yourself, captain," he asked.

The captain beat a hasty retreat.

Silenced Machine Gun. His fellow officers told he won his cross in the Argonne. A machine gun had the range of his men. They couldn't dislodge it. The captain coolly worked his way around it and then in the face of a murderous fire stood up and leveled his pistol. He silenced the gun. The shooting was at 30 paces. But they shot the captain missed every duck he hid at out of the train window in Utah. Lieutenant Lindberg wore a sergeant's croix de guerre.

He seized a Belgian chateau at the battle of Wazeghem. The Germans then cut him off, but instead of surrendering, he charged through them with his company, and got out.

"He took out 60 men," spoke up Captain Sever, "and came back with 39. He was the only officer left out of six. The Germans outnumbered them five to one."

DAILY HEALTH TALKS. GOING BACK TO NATURE (By Dr. W. LUCAS)

People get sick because they go away from nature, and the only way to get well is to go back. Something grows out of the ground in the form of vegetation to cure almost every ill.

Some of these vegetable growths are understood by man, and some are not. Animals, it would seem, know what to do when they are sick better than men and women. Observers have noted that a sick horse, dog or cat will stop eating food and seek out some vegetable growth in the field or yard, which, when found and eaten, often restore appetite and health. Haven't you seen these animals do this thing yourself?

Dr. Pierce's of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found the herbs and roots provided by nature to overcome constipation, and he had these vegetables collected and made up of Mayapple, leaves of Aloe, root of Jalap, into little white sugar coated pills, that he called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. You must understand that when your intestines are stopped up, poisons and decayed matter are imprisoned in your system, and these are carried by the blood throughout your body. Thus does your head ache, you get dizzy, you can't sleep, your skin may break out, your appetite declines, you get tired and despondent. As a matter of fact, you may get sick all over. Don't you see how useless all this suffering is? All that is often needed is a few of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which he has placed in all drug stores for your convenience and health. Try them by all means. They are probably the very thing you need right now.
