Fordson Goes over the top at the Walla Walla Tractor Demonstration

THERE IS A REASON

A Practical Tractor Built by Practical Builders

Of course, you want a Fordson

THE Fordson is an ideal tractor for your farm. It is built compactly, simply, yet with abundant power. It pulls a two bottom plow and will do a proportionate amount of any other farm power work.

The Fordson engine is unusual. It is simple, easily cared for, and so designed that the farmer can give any attention required in service. The entire head of the cylinders, which are cast en bloc, can be removed for grinding valves.

The air is cleaned with an improved air washer. A special carburetor allows the use of kerosene—without any of the trouble that is commonly associated with this fuel.

The Oliver No. 7 Plow was built for your Fordson

The Oliver No. 7 plow in addition to being specially adapted to the Fordson tractor has all its well-known Oliver features. It buries the weeds and trash; it is operated from the driver's seat; the furrow is always kept at the same depth by a special stop device; in fact, it is an ideal tractor plow designed for that one purpose only.

See it here with the Fordson tractor.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by moving all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

That the city extended Chemeketa street through the two acres and that she was paid $200 damages. That with the exception of $10, the amount was expended for improving the 60-acre farm. The Universal Film company has offered the Commercial club the use, without charge of 1,000 feet of film to be used in a campaign of education on good roads. It is thought that the three moving picture theatres of the city will co-operate with the Commercial club in the showing of the films. If everything is satisfactory, the Commercial club will notify the Universal film company to send on the films.

School Supervisor J. W. L. Smith reports that in his part of the county, he has found very few school teachers who wish to remain in the same district next winter. There is a general desire on the part of all teachers to secure a better education. Hence most of the teachers expect to either attend some institution of learning, or hope to secure positions in districts that pay more than the minimum of $75.00 a month next fall.

An organization known as the Associated Industries of Oregon today filed at the office of the secretary of state a petition to invoke the referendum on the oleomargarine bill passed by the last legislature. This has been referred to the attorney general for ballot title, and if there are no grounds for denial it will be approved after the usual lapse of time provided by law. Petitions of this kind must now have the signatures of 13,000 bona fide voters in order to get a place on the ballot.

A rather serious runaway happened this afternoon on North Fifth street. The team started to run towards town and narrowly escaped falling into the creek at D and Church streets. One horse fell over to the bank of the creek, followed closely by the other horse and on top of both fell the wagon. Through the timely assistance of a couple of dozen men or more, the horses were cut loose from the mix up and led away limping, but without apparently any serious damage.

The Summit school house about four miles southwest of Turner is not complying with the law in regard to flying the American flag during school hours. However, it has progressed to the extent of having a flag, a post hole and a flag pole. But the flag is neatly folded away in the school house and the flag pole is standing, all of which does not comply with the law. The directors of this school district are H. Wipper, J. Schifferer and G. W. Harris, with J. E. Whiteland, clerk. Miss Emily Kosoff is the teacher and there are four pupils. The district now pays $50.00 a month. The good housekeeper need not look for lower prices in groceries. The sad fact is that things are tending upward instead of down. A prominent grocer said today that as soon as the government removes its control from the prices of lard substitutes, these substitutes will advance in price, almost up to the present high price of lard. Coffee is in for an advance, possibly five cents a pound. There are also prospects of higher prices for canned milk. In fact, there are no lower prices in sight. Canned goods will be higher also, not only this summer but for the coming winter. The indications are that a new high price level for groceries will be established.

J. L. Busick & Son will open up another store May 1. This time it is in Silverton, where they have already located quarters in the Masonic building. H. H. Lucas, who has been in charge of the Busick store at Commercial and State, will be placed in charge of the Silverton store. Lieut. Max Alford, who was bookkeeper for one of the Busick stores before going into the service, will be placed in charge of the store succeeding H. H. Lucas. Mr. Busick states that he will put in a store at Silverton that will be complete in every detail and will follow the same policy of the Salem stores in giving the best for the lowest price consistent with good business.

"NO CROWDING" IS POLICY THAT PLANS CANADIAN PLAYGROUNDS

Alpine Climbing near Field, B.C., Canadian Rockies

Imagine a playground more than half as large as Belgium, and larger than the combined areas of Connecticut, Delaware and Rhode Island, and you visualize the national parks of Canada. Everything in the Dominion is on a large scale. Some day the population is going to measure up to the natural grandeur. That this potential population may have plenty of elbow room in their pleasuring, the Canadian government has wisely set apart nearly nine thousand square miles of public playgrounds. These parks are scattered across the continent. Some are comparatively small, others immense. At Annapolis Royal in Nova Scotia, we find Fort Anne Historic Park. It contains but 25 acres, but every acre is packed with historic value. St. John in New Brunswick has a similar park, the Fort Howe Historic. The Rockies and Selkirk rear their snow-topped crests, where nature has scattered wonders with prodigal hand, and where big game still lurks in the wilds.

The best known and most popular of these is the Rocky Mountain Park which spreads its 2,791 square miles over parts of two provinces. Adjoining this is the Yoho Park which embraces Yoho Valley, famous for its beautiful waterfalls and its camp de luxe. The Canadian Pacific Railway traverses both of these parks and brings to them annually many tourists. Among their points of interest, Banff easily ranks first as it offers a variety of entertainment. Here one may include in mountain climbing, enjoy raft above the clouds, swim in pools of hot or cold sulphur water, or rest in the luxurious Banff Springs Hotel. Within easy distances from Banff are the Lakes in the Clouds, the fossil beds of Field, Emerald Lake with its cozy chalet, lovely Lake Louise and its beautiful chateau. Farther afield are unnumbered snow-capped peaks, woodrouten cavern in glassy green glaciers and fascinating trails every foot of which are full of thrills. The newest of Canada's national parks is Revelstoke, containing Mount Revelstoke. A fine motor road leads to the top of this mountain where a delightful chalet will be found in the midst of one of the loveliest Alpine parks in the world.
