largely to the various problems pertaining to girl life in school and business. The program includes a reception in honor of visitors on Friday night, and a picnic lunch on Saturday, along with conference and business sessions. Miss Esther Laroungian of this city is secretary of the organization.

One of the indications of city progress is the fact that Frank Shafer of 170 South Commercial street, harness and leather goods, has decided to put in a modern front in his store. It will be constructed in the form of a deep panel front 10 feet from the sidewalk, with panel ceiling. Over the front will be placed a prism glass transom.

Notwithstanding the many attractions elsewhere in the city last evening, the monthly meeting of the Commercial club was attended by 107. With the growing membership and the infusion of new blood into the club and the new feeling that all are welcome, it is prophesied by some enthusiastic members that the seating capacity of the auditorium will be taxed to the utmost at the coming meetings.

Today is the middle of the month and there has so far been only 27 of an inch rainfall for the month. The month of May is not an especially wet month for this part of the valley. Last year the total rainfall was only 1.08 inches and two years ago the total was only 1.60 inches. But this is a little under the average as in May of 1911 the rainfall was 2.78 inches; in 1912 it was 2.47 inches; in 1913 there was 2.14 inches; in 1915 the precipitation was 2.51. In 1916 there was the average rainfall with 2.58 inches for the month.

Mrs. J. P. Clark, proprietress of the French restaurant on State street will leave in a few days for France to visit her parents. Upon her return, she expects to again go into the restaurant business on a larger scale. For the next four months Mrs. Clark has been attempting to secure a passport and be given the privilege of visiting France. It is understood that women who are now given permission to visit France must agree to remain six months, as all shipping space will be used for the returning of the American soldiers.

For once the Salem admirers of "Big Bill" Hart will have an opportunity to see their hero outside the garb and atmosphere of the "wild and woolly." He comes to the Oregon tomorrow and Saturday in a new role—that of an unjustly imprisoned man betrayed by his faithless wife. He is "Hairpin" Harry Dutton in "The Poppy Girl's Husband"—a film that deals with the notorious Barbary Coast of San Francisco. It is a flashlight picture of the underworld, such as Jack London has drawn, gripping the attention and the imagination with its vivid realism and its tragedy. It tells of the great love of a real man for his erring wife—the love of a father for his only child which prevents him from wreaking vengeance upon the woman. The plot is one that holds one fascinated with its intensity and its emotionalism. It is a picture that differs from anything in which Hart has appeared. The woman is Juanita Hansen, who plays the part of the "Poppy Girl" as an artist in delineation.

Nystrom did not agree with this and had located his mounting home on land belonging to the Santiam Electric Co. In a suit before the circuit court, it was ordered that Nystrom be ejected from property not his own. Sheriff Needham had been promised by Nystrom that he would move off the land but when the sheriff arrived yesterday, he found Mrs. Nystrom still in possession. She refused to go. And not only refused but went after the sheriff with a big stick and also according to the latest prize fighting rules. As he was under orders of the court to remove the trespassers, Mr. Needham had nothing to do but to not only remove Mrs. Nystrom from the property but to also place the household effects about 150 feet over onto the farm of Nystrom. This was the first time in his official duties that Mr. Needham has been obliged to forcibly follow out the orders of the court in a matter of ejection.

The high cost of living took a tumble this morning, not to any great extent, but enough to attract the attention of housekeepers. It was just a short time ago that bread advanced one cent a loaf making the retail price 11 cents. This morning, due to Portland competition, the price was reduced to the old price of 10 cents a loaf.

Now that prohibition is about to become effective July 1, the treasury department at Washington has taken notice of the fact that stills for making corn juice may be taken as the easiest way out for the thirsty. The instructions just issued by the department state that the penalty for illicit distillation is forfeiture of all distilling apparatus and all material and a fine of from $500 to $5000. Also imprisonment of from six months to three years.

The supply department of the Red Cross with headquarters in the post office building announces that all materials that have been issued to auxiliaries or individuals, must be returned by May 25, and not later. On that date, all supplies here will be packed and sent to the northwestern headquarters in Seattle and the work of the supply department discontinued. The knitting department of the Red Cross will continue its work through out the summer, knitting children's sweaters, stockings and scarfs for women.
