To the Editor: The Capital Daily Journal, Salem, Oregon. Dear Sir: As a resident tax-payer and earnest well-wisher to the city in which I live and do business, I deem it my duty to point out and help to remedy anything that might prove a detriment to the community. Hence this letter, which I trust will not have been written in vain. Many of our public-spirited citizens are generously giving time, money and energy to various efforts calculated to build up and maintain a bigger, better, busier Salem. As a result of their enterprise, now industries have been attracted, tourists are coming to look us over, and important conventions of great fraternal orders and other bodies are scheduled to be held here. In view of this one would naturally ex-
