They found at the end of several months negotiations that their information was disregarded and that representatives of no other nation came to the conference in the same spirit, coming instead to barter or trade.

Monmouth Schools Reopen Following "Flu" Epidemic

(Capital Journal Special Service.) Monmouth, Or., May 21.—Monmouth schools opened again Monday morning with only a fair attendance.

During the remaining three weeks of the year's work will be reviewed and everyone will be required to take examinations, although the time lost will not be made up.

Personnel Of Committee Of Music Teachers Filled

Superintendent J. A. Churchill has appointed Mrs. Jean P. McCracken as a member of the committee of music teachers who will pass upon the credentials of teachers who wish to have the work of their pupils accredited in the high schools of the state.

It should be understood that high school pupils who have completed the required musical work outside of school are allowed three credits on the stipulated number for graduation.

Or half a credit will be allowed for half this amount of work. The music lessons must be taken during the entire semester for which the credit is desired.

Any teacher who wishes her work accredited must send her credentials to the superintendent of public instruction who turns them over to the committee, and if they are found satisfactory, a certificate is issued by the superintendent.

MONMOUTH NEWS

(Capital Journal Special Service.) Monmouth, Or., May 21.—A very interesting letter from Corporal E. Stanley Evans, dated April 18, Chantilly, Haute Marne, France, to friends here tells of many wonderful historical scenes and places in France, England and Wales which he visited recently while on a fourteen day furlough.

Messrs. D. C. Walker, and James Gentle, delegates to the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F., and Messrs. John Fuller and L. P. Gilmore, delegates to the Rebekah Assembly, left Monday for the Capital City to attend the annual conventions of these state organizations which convene Monday.

Surveyors are at work setting stakes along the west side highway south of town.

Mrs. W. T. Patton, recently of Britton, N. C., Canada, visited with her mother, Mrs. Stout, several days last week. Saturday she left for Portland taking her mother and her son where they will live with her for the present.

The British Columbia climate did not agree with Mrs. Patton so she was forced to return to the States.

Denzel Moore left last week for Washington, where he has secured work with his brother. He will remain for the summer at least.

Mrs. F. C. Davidson is in a Portland hospital taking treatment for a tubercular affection of the knee joint. A portion of the bone has been removed and the patient is doing nicely.

Dean Todd enjoyed a trip to Salem Thursday.

Polk county Pomona grange is scheduled to meet in Monmouth Saturday, May 24.

The Misses Maggie and Allie Butler are spending the week in the Capital City visiting friends and attending sessions of the Rebekah assembly.

Ben Pollan and Grover Hinkle, company L boys who enlisted from Monmouth, have returned from overseas, received their discharge and are home again.

GERALDINE FARRAR in THE TURN OF THE WHEEL

Geraldine Farrar Sees Production On Train

Geraldine Farrar saw her first Goldwyn picture, "The Turn of the Wheel" in the drawing room of her Pullman on her way to Wyoming, where many scenes of her second Goldwyn production, "The Hell Cat," by Willard Mack, were photographed.

Leaving of her chagrin in not being able to view her first Goldwyn work, studio officials arranged a jolly surprise for the star. A print of "The Turn of the Wheel" was hurriedly assembled, rushed to the station and placed aboard the baggage car carrying Miss Farrar and her company to Chicago, the first lap of her journey. After the train had passed Albany,

Reginald Barker, the director, took the print to Miss Farrar's drawing room and, while she was viewing the landscape from the observation car, adjusted a portable projection machine to an electric light socket.

When the diva returned to her compartment everything was in readiness for operation. Miss Farrar, needless to say, thoroughly enjoyed both the big surprise and "The Turn of the Wheel," which comes to Ya Liberty theater, beginning Thursday May 22.

NC-4 HELD

Received here last evening, that "minor casualties" were suffered by some of the crew of the ill-fated NC-1 which sank at sea while being towed to port.

It was held possible here today that Commander Towers might accompany the NC-4 on the remainder of the journey to England.

There has been no word, however, that the personnel of the NC-4 will be other than that which successfully made the flight to Ponta Del Gada.

Gradually improving weather conditions may make it possible for the NC-4 to start on its flight to Lisbon tomorrow. A navy wireless from Ponta Del Gada this morning reported weather conditions over the route to Portugal at noon, Azores time, were not yet settled, but improving.

Frequent rain-squalls were reported during the morning, but the sea was smooth. Visibility was good and the thermometer was rising. There was a 20-mile west wind.

Commander Towers reported to the navy department that he was sending the NC-3 to New York aboard the U. S. S. Melville. Mechanic Moore, engineer of the crew and Commander Towers recommended that the NC-3 be placed out of commission and that the NC-1 be stricken from the navy list.

Towers asked permission to proceed to Plymouth with the crews of the NC-1 and NC-3.

Lieut. Commander Lavender of the NC-3 and Lieut. Sadonwater, of the NC-1 are returning to the United States.

Former Monmouth Girl Dies At McMinnville Home

Monmouth, May 21.—Miss Bessie Sullivan, the daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. George Sullivan, died Tuesday May 13, at the home in McMinnville. Bessie took sick last fall with the first influenza epidemic while the family was still in Monmouth.

Her case was considered the most serious in the community but she finally rallied and became apparently as well as ever. Later she became ill again with nervous complications which terminated with brain fever and caused her death.

Bessie was eighteen years old and most of her life was spent in Monmouth. She was a junior in high school and was a favorite among her fellow students. The body was brought to Monmouth and laid to rest in the K. P. cemetery Thursday, with brief services at the grave. Many beautiful floral tributes were placed upon the casket and there was a large attendance of sympathizing friends.
