Seventh Annual Girls' Conference Comes To End

With a sense of inspiration and uplift upon them, and with a host of pleasant memories to carry away with them, the seventh annual Girls' Conference came to a close yesterday afternoon with a simple but impressive farewell service, held in the First Methodist church.

The program for Saturday afternoon and evening included brief addresses by President Margaret Scott, Julia Gromoff, Mildred Hall, Gertrude Lanning, Faith Jones, Miss Ward, Catherine Gibbard, Mrs. Mary E. Pawcett, Mrs. Hurlbert, Miss Gertrude Eakin, Jessie U. Cox, Bessie Jean Fleming and Mrs. F. N. Rogers. The discussions included many of the important problems of girlhood and brought out many original ideas and experiences. Rev. Harold Humbert, secretary of the Oregon Sunday School association, was present Saturday evening to extend greetings and to give the young ladies some wise counsel from out his experience and observation as a Sunday school worker. The sessions were made more attractive by special musical numbers and conference song services under the direction of Miss Ada Miller. And sandwiched in between the more serious portions of the conference was a deal of sociability, frolic and the forming of new acquaintances.

In the election of officers, Miss Catherine Gibbard, of this city, was made president, Miss Marie Howard, vice-president, and Miss Faith Jones, secretary.

STATE HOUSE NEWS

The annual report of State Fire Marshal Harvey Wells recently issued shows that during the year 1918 there were 1945 preventable fires in Oregon, 42 of them alleged to have been of incendiary origin. Out of the total, 932 were dwelling houses and 275 business houses. These fires cost the insurance companies $1,829,317.70. In the majority of cases the fires were the result of carelessness, 229 were caused by defective wiring and 482 were due to defective flues. In the aggregate conflagration 18 lives were lost, 11 of them being children. Among the counties, Jackson showed the smallest loss with only $1000, while Columbia county, on account of the great St. Helens fire, showed a total of $412,314. Multnomah came next with $270,694. Out of the list of dwelling house fires, 220 were on farms.

The fire marshal investigated 42 fires during the year, and these investigations resulted in eight convictions and three convictions for arson. Seven cases are now under investigation or pending indictment.

The activities of the arson bug have been carefully watched, investigations have been made resulting in the conviction of eight fires and in the conviction of three persons," reads the report.

"While it is difficult to secure a conviction for this crime, and we have lost cases where it was felt a conviction should have been secured, we have been compensated by an aroused public sentiment that will leave a splendid moral effect. The unceasing vigor with which the department has investigated all fires of suspicious origin has, we believe, had a deterring influence on the firebug from carrying out his dangerous and degraded practices."

Deaths from fires during the year amounted to 18, of which 11 were children, 5 men and 2 women.

Contending that the shipments of fish eggs and fry constitute a class of traffic that will ultimately bring a vast increase of passenger traffic to the railroads, Chairman Buchel, of the Public Service Commission will file a protest against the action of the railroad administration in fixing a rate equivalent to 10 adult fares for shipment of fish for distribution in the state. Formerly these shipments which were made in baggage cars, were carried without charge, but the present rate was inaugurated January 1st. A reduction will be asked, though in what amount it is not stated.

Governor Olcott, Justices McBride and Harris, of the supreme court, with Jas. Lynn and several others made up a fishing party who recently invaded the upper McKenzie river with very good results as to enjoyment of piscatorial acquisitions. There can be no question that they fished in a very judicious manner, with due regard to the dignity of their office and the laws of Oregon. They brought back a box of fine rainbow and cut throat with which to verify their yarns.
