out of the way places since the strike began. They are equipped with army rifles, one official said.

Both sides have accused each other of unfair propaganda. Union representatives especially resented stories that they contemplated a soviet government. The story was given force by attempts to distribute produce and bread from wagons picketed.

The city, still quiet, was even more tense today. The crisis was awaited with hope but also with a fear that violence might be unleashed if there should be a break in labor ranks.

The strikers today entered its eleventh day. With 25,000 workmen idle, not one has been arrested. A holiday calm pervades the entire city.

Volunteer Guards Drill. City officials claim this peace is due to their numerous armed guards, assisted by volunteers. Labor leaders say part of their program is the avoidance of violence. Peaceful insistence on their demands, they say, is calculated to swing public sympathy to them despite the inconveniences they have caused.

Brigadier General Ketchum refused to state the size of his forces, but did say they were sufficient to cope with any emergency. His command, city officials said, can be augmented by volunteer forces, who have been drilling in many more people in the city than one year ago, there is the falling off of 365 pupils in the number registered.

According to the May report of Superintendent Todd, there are 1306 male pupils registered and 1457 female, giving the girls a majority of 151.

The grades in the city schools begin with No. 1, the primary and are numbered up to 12, seniors of the high schools and ready for graduation. Comparison of numbers in each of the grades is as follows: First grade, 29 more boys than girls; second grade, girls only nine in the majority; third grade, boys number 17 more than the girls.

In the fourth grade, the boys again outnumber the girls but only have a majority of seven. In the fifth grade it is about even with the boys two in the majority. But in the sixth grade, the girls forge ahead and have a majority of five.

In the seventh grade, known as the lowest in the junior high schools the boys are four ahead. In the next, the eighth, the girls take the lead by 25 while the highest grade of the junior high schools, the ninth, there are 18 more girls than boys.

In the senior high school, the sophomore class numbers 95 boys and 133 girls. The junior class has 81 boys and 109 girls and in the senior class to be graduated this year, there are only 42 boys compared to but 69 girls. The war was responsible for the boys making such a poor showing in number in the junior and senior classes of the high school.

As usual on Memorial day, there will be occasion to use a number of cars to carry to the cemeteries the veterans who were in the war 53 years ago. Those who have cars are asked to bring them to the armory at 8:30 or 9 o'clock Friday morning. The exercises at the armories will be just for the morning.

Marathon Pianist To Try To Break Own Record Of More Than 65 Hours Here

Something new in the musical line is on our mind. J. M. Waterbury, the marathon pianist, is here and is to make an effort to break his world's record of continuous playing. Should he do so must play longer than 65 hours and 7 minutes. This record he established at Boise, Idaho, about a year ago.

His nearest competitor is a young woman at Bridgeport, Conn., who several years ago played 94 hours while he kept on one hour longer. During this long musical journey over the keyboard he stops for nothing. His food and nourishment being given him by his attendant. On and on, night and day, marches, waltzes, two-steps, old songs, new songs, ragtime and in fact any thing as long as it is good clean music.

"I am going to make a good honest effort to break my record here," says Waterbury, "and I may do so as I am getting tired of the crazy stunt and am going to quit it. I do not use drugs or dope of any kind to keep going, as many presume. It's just plain nerve and grit."

Mr. Waterbury has made arrangements to stage his musical prize fight in the show window of the E. L. Stiff & Son, beginning Wednesday at 10 a. m. and will continue night and day as long as the piano, he and public can stand it. A prize is to be given to the person estimating the nearest number of hours and minutes played.

Workers In Shipbuilding Plant Of Los Angeles Out

San Pedro, Cal., May 26.—The strike of all craft employed in the yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Drydock company began at 10 o'clock this morning.

After a two-hour meeting the union leaders announced that the strike had been sanctioned and the men were called out.

Just how many responded could not be ascertained definitely, but the strike leaders declared that practically the entire working force of 6000 men would be out before night.

A package containing a pound shell with unexploded primer and a loaded fuse on the projectile was discovered in the mail at Eugene last Sunday. It was sent from France to a resident of Morrow, Ore.

Pershing Responsible For Fighting To Last

Washington, May 26.—General Pershing has informed General March, chief of staff, that orders issued from American headquarters in France that firing was to be continued to 11 a. m. November 11, 1918, along sectors held by American troops were based upon good military reasons. The commander-in-chief's report, made public was in reply to an inquiry from General March prompted by criticism in congress and elsewhere that the orders caused an unnecessary sacrifice of American lives.

"Those orders," said General Pershing, "were dictated by the necessity for taking every opportunity to render complete acceptance by the enemy of the armistice and were undoubtedly concurred in by the allied commander-in-chief (General Foch), who himself issued orders to the same effect."

The report said that with the exception of one small unit, which failed to receive instructions until 11:10 a. m., all firing ceased exactly at the minute of the armistice and that no American soldiers were subsequently killed in action.

POLICE PROTECT REDES

struction legislation. These things are all the outgrowth of the fight on Penrose which began last session and which is expected to come to a head this week.

Membership Limited. The Norris rule, agreed to by Republican Leader Lodge and others only after the most stubborn fight, prohibits senators who are members of any of the "big ten" senate committees belonging to more than one other of the "big ten" committee cannot be on a conference committee except on bills from the committee he heads. In former years a few senators have been members of all the big committees and, through control of the conference, have absolutely moulded legislation to suit themselves. The adoption of the Norris rule ends this.

Professors held commanding places on important senate committees, which will handle some of the biggest reconstruction problems.

Cummins, Iowa, is chairman of interstate commerce, to deal with railroad and wire problems; Jones, Washington, heads commerce, to outline a permanent merchant marine policy; Gronna, North Dakota, progressive and practical farmer, is chairman of agriculture, which deals with farmers interests and which this session is expected to report a drastic bill regulating the packing industry.

Kenyon is chairman of education and labor, from which will come all labor welfare and Americanization legislation; Johnson, California, heads woman suffrage and becomes a member of foreign relations, the most important committee in the senate.

Progressives In Strong. Therefore, progressives feel that even though the old guard should win with Penrose and Warren, the progressive group is more strongly placed in the senate than ever before and better able to influence legislation.

Five progressives voted against giving Penrose the finance committee chairmanship. Johnson, California, made the motion to strike out Penrose's name and Senators Cummins, Kellogg, McCormick and McNary voted with Johnson. Thirty-five regulars voted to retain Penrose.
