KAFFIR BOYS STRONG ON SUMMER FURS

4 Latter Singers for Centeriory Colebration 4

Summer furs are no novelty to these smiling young persons from Kaffirland, who are shown featuring the expensive leopard-skin and other valuable fur costumes. Long before wearing furs in the hottest weather became vogue, these denizens of the Dark Continent and their progenitors were shielding themselves from the sun's fierce rays with pelts which would cost hundreds of dollars in any first class furriers place. The smilers are the Kaffir Singing Boys, fobtained for the Methodist Centenary Celebration at Columbus, O., June 20 to July 13, as part of the expensional services and demonstrators the possibilities brought from that great continent.
