AIRPLANES TO REACH SALEM EARLY MONDAY

Schedule Of Flyers Advanced One Day To Permit Overhauling In Portland.

This comes from the Commercial club. The motto of every person in Salem and vicinity next Monday should be "Look up, not down." For it is next Monday and not Tuesday as originally announced that the one big DeHavilland airplane and the six smaller ones of the two passenger style will fly over Salem and finally land at the state fair grounds.

The fleet of planes will leave Sacramento for the voyage to Portland to take part in the Rose festival beginning Wednesday, June 11. But in order that there may be one day for a general going over of the planes before the Rose Festival exhibitions, the time was advanced one day.

Hence, according to the new schedule, the planes will arrive in Eugene Sunday evening and leave that place for Salem Monday morning. A stop is scheduled for Corvallis and it may be Monday noon before the fleet will arrive at the fair grounds.

As yet no special arrangements have been made for a proper reception of the seven aviators, but as soon as it can be learned definitely what hour to expect them, it is probable that a program of reception will be arranged for the fair grounds and accommodations in the grandstand.

R. O. Snelling, director of the city department of the Commercial club, with Manager T. E. McCreeky and Mayor C. E. Albin, are today out at their fair grounds. The grain crop in the landing space enclosed by the race track has already been cut and the ground is now being harrowed and disced and made suitable for airplane landing.

On the return of the planes to the south following the Rose Festival, no stop will be made at Salem.

Telegraph And Telephone Lines Returned To Owners

Washington, June 5.—(United Press.)—Postmaster General Burleson today issued an order returning the telegraph and telephone wire system to their respective owners.

Burleson's order reads: "All telegraph and telephone companies, including individuals and partnerships, whose properties were taken over by the president under authority of a joint resolution of congress, approved June 15, 1918, will hereafter operate and manage their properties during the remaining period of federal control, as under number 1783, free from direct federal operation under the following conditions:

"Contracts or awards fixing just compensation for the use of telegraph or telephone line or system shall remain in effect until the termination of said period of control."

Immediately upon hearing of Postmaster General Burleson's order returning the wires to their owners, President S. J. Kosenkamp of the Commercial Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, sent out a message from Washington authorizing a strike of Western Union telegraphers throughout the south-east.

Frosts Cut Douglas County Prune Yield, States Jenks

Manager W. T. Jenks, of the Willamette Valley Prune association, states that recent reports from the Douglas county fruit districts indicate that the crop of prunes and other fruits will be even lower than at first estimated.

Estimates made in April on certain lines of fruit placed the yield at 700,000 pounds for the district, but recent figures, compiled since the killing frosts, place the probable yield at about 450,000 pounds.

With regard to prunes, some fruit men who have been watching conditions closely, place the estimate for the entire northwest at from 25 to 30 per cent of last year's crop. Manager Jenks smiled when it was suggested to him that since it was a case of putting a patrician price on a plebian fruit there might be a restricted demand for prunes this season. He contends that the big juicy Oregon prune is no longer a plebian, boarding-house fruit. It has become a part of the menu of the millionaire, who will have it regardless of the price.

Between the 1919 contract price on prunes and the big crop of small fruits, with a high price on them, he expects the fruit districts as a whole to pull through the season in about as good condition as last year.

McKittrick, the retiring captain, played well at first base, having only two errors against him. He led in runs and scores and had five stolen bases to his credit. The men who have played two-thirds of the games are Bosler H. Dindick, R. Dinkel, Davies, Olson, McKittrick, Austin, Wapato and Hickman. Powers substituted in the last game for Wapato, who is on the sick list.

STATE HOUSE NEWS

The secretary of state's office today approved the forms of initiative petition for a single tax constitutional amendment initiated by the Oregon Single Tax League. The proposed amendment of section 1 of article 9 of the constitution provides: "From July 1, 1921, to and until July 1, 1925, all revenues necessary for the maintenance of state, county, municipal and district government shall be raised by a tax on the value of land irrespective of improvements in or on it; and thereafter the full rental value of land, irrespective of improvements shall be taken in lieu of all other taxes for the maintenance of government, and for such other purposes as the people may direct. The intent of this amendment is to forever prevent the exploitation of the individual through the monopoly of natural or community made values or opportunities."

Bill James walked to the center of the infield at Braves field yesterday and pitched five and a part of the sixth innings against the Dodgers, who despite their clubbing reputation were able to reach the former champion speed ball demon of the National league for only six hits, a solitary run coming home in the ninth inning. He fanned a couple of opponents. The game already was lost when George Stallings decided to see if James was any good and he evidently proved that he was. The rival National league clubs are at liberty to get all the consolation they can out of the probability that James doubtless will be taking his regular turn now for the Braves.

There is no enthusiasm over James' successful appearance just yet, but turn your memory back to the closing days of the 1914 season, when three pitchers working in regular turn lifted a club from last first place barely before the season's ending. Recall the world's series of that year when this club won four straight from the Philadelphia Athletics.
