THE FRIENDLY TOBACCO

There's two things can't be imitated—youthful charm and mellow old age.

Velvet Joe.

"Mellow old age" in good Kentucky Burley Tobacco is reached after it has cured for two years.

We put millions of pounds in warehouses every year, to ripen for two years. It is a slow, expensive method. But it makes Velvet as good a pipe tobacco as money can buy.

It makes Velvet mellow and friendly—cool and long-burning. Get that charm of Velvet's mellow age in your pipe today.

SUPREME COURT NOT

tion dealt with in all the briefs is as to whether or not Mr. Olcott has become the governor of Oregon in very fact, and therefore eligible to hold the office through the entire gubernatorial period; or whether there has merely devolved upon him temporarily the duties of that office, to be carried on until the successor of Governor Withycombe has been duly elected by the people.

Justice Johns, in reviewing the case at length, refers again to the historic case of Chadwick vs. Earhart, in which the secretary of state, in succeeding to the governorship, drew both salaries and performed the functions of both offices without question, and he notes the fact that both the legislature and the people had virtually accepted and endorsed this precedent; hence it comes within the rule of stare decisis and becomes binding upon this court.

He continues Mr. Olcott is governor in fact, and has the right and title to the office itself, with the accompanying right and authority to perform the duties of the office, and to receive the emoluments thereof. As to whether he could resign as secretary of state, and as governor appoint another to that position, and still continue to hold the office of governor, we do not feel legally justified in going beyond anything said in this opinion of the attorney general. That is less a public and more a personal question for Mr. Olcott. But we do hold that upon the death of the late Governor Withycombe, he automatically became governor, and when he took the oath as such the office of governor and the title to that office was thrust upon him by the terms and provisions of section 8 of article 5 of the constitution, and that under the authority of Chadwick vs. Earhart he became and now is governor in fact, and is entitled to hold that office and receive its emoluments for the full period of the unexpired term to which Governor Withycombe was elected. Therefore let the writ of mandamus be issued as prayed for in this petition.

This excerpt gives the gist of the opinion of Justice Johns, which however is supported by a long line of citations and references to other state institutions, and constitutes a most comprehensive digest of all the questions and inferences that enter into the case.

In this opinion Justices Beas, McBride, Bennett specially concur, while Justices Harris and Burdett concur in part, each one of them submitting exhaustive statements.

university seniors and student body massed before the pulpit, and the building thronged with friends of the university. The baccalaureate sermon, in its setting of music and flowers, will be carried long in the minds of the graduates. Starting from the first verse of the 44th Psalm and discoursing upon the subject "The Progress of the Divine Will," the speaker imparted to the young students the secret of the well-rounded, dynamic life—the finding of God in the daily task. He reminded them that thousands in past ages had undertaken to find God and the divine will subjectively—by asceticism and introspection, and failed. Again, he pointed out that we are prone to trace the will of God in the past and in the lives of the great of other ages, and fail to recognize God in the present motley of life. In the stress and confusion of the battle of existence it is hard for us to recognize that God has anything to do with it at all. But it was the same with St. Paul, and Luther and John Knox. They were also looking into the past, and failed to see God's will any clearer than we may see it today. To recognize God in the present and in the common task is to glorify both the life and the task.

There have been many addresses delivered from the platform of the old First church to young people, but probably none will remain longer in the thought than this. And in counting up the factors that have made up the history and pageant of Willamette a large place must be made for the preacher, organizer and toiler—President Carl Gregg Doney.

Tomorrow morning in the First Methodist church will occur the 75th annual commencement exercises of Willamette University. Following is the program:

Piano Solo—Miss Florence Shirley. Invocation—Rev. E. E. Gornall. Scripture lesson—Pres. H. J. Talbot. "Gloria in Excelsis"—University

Men's Glee Club. Commencement Address—B. Frank Irvine, Editor Oregon Journal.

Alto Solo, "Come Ye Blessed"—Miss Venita McKinney.

Conferring of Degrees—President Carl G. Doney.

Announcement of prizes and senior scholars for 1919-20.

Benediction—Rev. D. H. Leach.

There are 37 members of the graduating class this year and among them a number of students who have made a fine record in scholarship. This afternoon on the university campus was staged the annual round of "class stunts"—one of the merriest events of the school year. In this each of the classes presents some comedy affair, which creates no end of fun and at the same time demonstrates the talent of the students in impromptu work.
