THOUSANDS GREET PRESIDENT ON RETURN FROM PEACE CONFERENCE

Tremendous Ovation Is Given Chief Executive Upon Arrival In New York.

New York, July 8.—To the accompaniment of booming guns, shrieking sirens, blaring bands and shouting people, President Wilson came home today.

The progress of the presidential transport George Washington from the outer to the inner harbor was a continuous demonstration. The ship arrived off Ambrose light before 11 o'clock but the speed was reduced so that she would reach the entrance to the North river about 2:30 to permit her to reach her dock at Hoboken with flood tide—about 3 p. m.

When the George Washington passed abreast of the Statue of Liberty at 2:25 the entire inner harbor was a turmoil of noise. The cheers of those aboard the escorting fleet and harbor craft were flung back a thousand fold from those on shore. The transport made her way directly toward the mouth of the North river, maintaining her new schedule without difficulty.

The George Washington began shouldering her way into the slip at Hoboken at 3:05 p. m. The president, attired in a silk hat and cutaway coat, stood on the bridge, doffing his hat, bowing and smiling to the crowds ashore.

Wilson Ashore at 3:05. Just before the George Washington was made fast, the president stood on the bridge of the steamer which had brought him back from the peace conference in Paris, acknowledging the cheers of thousands of persons, afloat and ashore.

The president came ashore at 3:05 p. m. With Rear Admiral Grayson at his side, the president had remained on the bridge much of the time after the transport was met off Ambrose light by elements of the Atlantic fleet until he descended to the ashore.

As the steamer nosed her way into the slip, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Margaret Wilson stood on the deck just below

Charles, Jr., Arrives At Charlie Chaplin Domicile

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—Charles Spencer Chaplin, Jr. He arrived last night and weighs seven and three-quarters pounds. His mother, known on the screen as Mildred Harris, declared today that he must be known as "Charles" and not as "Charlie."

Departure of R-34 Delayed Until Tonight or Wednesday

Minneapolis, L. I., July 8.—(United Press.)—Major H. G. Scott, commander of the R-34, announced shortly after noon today that the dirigible probably would start on its return voyage across the Atlantic about 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

This delay in the original plans, Scott said, was necessitated by more work in overhauling the engines than had been anticipated. He said the R-34 would cruise over New York City for about an hour before putting out to sea.

Minneapolis, L. I., July 8.—The British dirigible R-34, the first lighter than air craft to cross the Atlantic, will start its return voyage between 11 o'clock tonight and daybreak tomorrow, should weather conditions prove favorable, it was definitely announced early today.

Major H. G. Scott, commander, planned on getting away before 8 o'clock this morning, but a thorough inspection last night revealed that the airship needed further overhauling. The delay will also enable temporary repairs to the envelope, a large rent which was torn yesterday when a large gust of wind nearly pulled the R-34 from her moorings at a time when the heat had greatly expanded her gas.

Southern Route Back
The R-34 will make a short cruise over New York city before putting to sea. Although weather conditions for the next 24 hours are expected to be unfavorable, the officers of the R-34 were confident of making much faster time than on the trip over here, as the prevailing winds are sure to be from the west.

The R-34 will take the southern route, flying direct from Minneapolis to Pastnet, Ireland. This distance is 2549 the bridge.

Among those who greeted the president on the pier were his daughter, Mrs. Francis Sayre and Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, Miss Helen Bonea, Champ Clark, Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Rear Admiral Giesves, General Shanks, Secretary Tammaly and all members of the cabinet with the exception of Secretaries Redfield and Burleson and Attorney General Palmer.

Jackies Cheer Wildly.
The George Washington docked on the north side of pier four. No the south side was the Levithan and along pier three was the Von Steuben. As the George Washington came into her berth the sailors on the transports named the rails.

The jackies stood rigidly at attention until the president started to leave the flying bridge, then they broke into cheers. The president smiled and waved his hand to them.

Women war workers, lining both sides of the pier down which the president and his party passed, apparently were as interested in the clothes worn by the women of the party as in the president himself. Mrs. Wilson was dressed in an afternoon gown of grey with a black silk shawl about her shoulders and a Paris pleated hat. Miss Wilson wore a white Paris gown and a large hat.

After the formalities at Hoboken the president was driven to the Larkwanna ferry, where he stepped aboard the ferryboat Ithaca at 4:08 p. m. for the trip across the river to New York.

At 4:10 p. m. the Ithaca moved from her slip into the stream.

Crowds Swarm Hall.
New Jersey's reception to the president was duplicated by New York when he landed at the 23rd street ferry. When the Ithaca drew into her slip the cheers were deafening. The police kept the crowds well back from the entrance but they jammed the streets for blocks around.

The president and party were greeted by Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan together with other members of the latter's welcoming committee. They then entered automobiles and were driven across to Fifth avenue.

The president rode bareheaded most of the time, acknowledging the cheers

STRIKERS DENOUNCE WIRE CONTROL BOARD

Telephone Workers Ready To Arbitrate But Not With Burleson.

San Francisco, July 8.—Striking telephone workers in the Pacific coast districts are willing to submit their case to any board of arbitration appointed by President Wilson or Secretary of Labor Wilson, but not Postmaster General Burleson's wire control board. Strike leaders announced this today and declare meetings in the various cities today and tonight will take the same stand.

The announcement followed a telegram from Burleson to Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, in which he stated that the time a wage increase is to become effective is the only point at issue. The telegram urged that settlement be left entirely up to the wire control board.

Strike leaders state that the wire control board is composed of the telephone and telegraph company officials. They state that there are many other questions at issue beside the wage scale, and Miss Nellie Johnson, international vice president of the operators' unit, declares the girls will remain out until Christmas if necessary before they will agree to arbitration by the wire control board. Electricians intend to stay out until the girls' demands are all met.

Captain Charles T. Connell of Los Angeles, who settled a number of strikes as representative of the federal board of mediation, and E. P. Marsh, of the mediation board, conferred with telephone company and strike committee officials yesterday, then telegraphed a lengthy report to Washington. Neither would make a statement.

An appeal to President Wilson to lend his personal assistance to settling the strike was telegraphed today by the executive committee of the women's citizen committee, an organization which after an investigation, exposed the cause of the telephone operators and in maintaining cautions for their subsistence.

RESULT OF AUTOPSY TO BE TRIAL BASIS

Inquest Over Remains Of Freida Lesser Will Be Held Today.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8.—(United Press.)—Revelations of the inquest and autopsy today over the body of Miss Freida Lesser, shot and killed by Harry S. New, who claims to be the son of Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, are expected to form the first big determining step in the disposition of New's remarkable crime.

New, himself, has for the first time showed interest in saving himself from the gallows and a court fight is now expected.

"I fear just one thing in all the world—mother," he declared in his cell today. "For her I hope to defend myself."

His defense, his friends said, will be insanity. Now spent another almost sleepless night last night but today reiterated his declaration that fears that he might attempt suicide are groundless.

"I haven't the slightest intention of harming myself," he declared. At the same time it became known that veiled threats against New had been received and he will be heavily guarded when he goes to the inquest today, police said.

George Primrose, Famous Minstrel Man, Near Death

San Diego, Cal., July 8.—George Primrose, famous old time minstrel, man originator of the soft shoe dancing, has probably faced the footlight for the last time. He is lying at a local sanitarium today, seriously ill and with little chance for recovery. "A little weather" was the report of his physician today.

Primrose came to San Diego about 19 days ago, accompanied by his brother, hoping to be benefitted by the climate. He became worse rapidly however, went to a sanitarium and today is unable to move from his bed.

George Rader, prominent citizen of Grant county, is dead at his home near Long Creek. Mr. Rader had been a resident of Grant county since 1902.

Ten French Soldiers Killed And A Score Are Hurt In Fiume Rioting

Rome, July 7.—Ten French soldiers were killed and 20 injured in new outbreaks between the French and Italians at Fiume, according to dispatches received from that city today.

In describing the fight, the Milan correspondent of the Courriere Della Sera reported that the trouble started when a few drunken French soldiers opened fire on a passer by, a large crowd gathered and one Frenchman was killed.

A company of Italian marines landed from cruisers and were attacked by a number of French soldiers who wounded one of the marines. Merchant sailors attacked the Frenchmen, who fled and barricaded themselves in a store, re-opening fire from the windows. The mob returned the fire and seven French men were killed and 20 injured. One merchant sailor was killed. Several Italian soldiers who rushed to restore order were wounded.

PLANS OF PAPER MILL NOW ABOUT COMPLETE

Main Building To Rise Between Trade Street And Electric Tracks.

Plans are now about completed for the buildings of the Oregon Pulp & Paper company, the paper mill in Salem which has recently been incorporated for $800,000.

Instead of placing the main building facing on Commercial street, it has been decided to place it adjoining the spur of the Oregon Electric. It will extend 273 feet on Trade street and 80 feet deep, occupying much of the site taken by the flour mill that burned a few years ago.

By this arrangement the main building, which is to be of concrete two stories high, will set back about 10 feet from Commercial street, extending back on Trade to the Oregon Electric spur adjoining the Farmers' warehouse building.

The old elevator building will be removed to the foot of Trade vacated to the company by the city council and used as a storage bin for sawdust and other fuel for the power plant. The Farmers' warehouse building will not be moved and will be used for the pulp mill. It has also been decided to place the power house on the space at the foot of Trade street.

The main building will be so constructed that as the business grows, another $125,000 paper-making machine can be placed in the north side of the building. When the business requires another machine, then a stock room building will be erected on the present site of the office of the water company, corner of Trade and South Commercial.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the company, the following officers were elected: F. W. Ledbetter, president; Chas. K. Spaulding, vice-president; A. N. Bush, treasurer, and Roy H. Mills, secretary.

London Paper Declares Wilson's Defeat Would Be Disaster For World

London, July 8.—(United Press.)—Commenting lengthily on President Wilson's task when he returns to America, the Daily News declared the peace treaty is disappointing; a travesty on the fourteen points and a perfidious menace to peace.

"But it is signed," the News said, "and the only hope is to take it as it stands and reshape it into what it might be. Wilson's defeat would be an international disaster."

ASSOCIATION OF GROWERS PURELY OREGON CONCERN

Paulus Denies California Interests Control New Organization.

ACCUSATION BRANDED AS RANK INJUSTICE

Assertions Made In Oregonian Article Last Sunday Scored.

Robert C. Paulus, manager of the Salem Fruit Union, president of the Salem Commercial club, and director and vitally interested in the New Oregon Cooperative Growers' association, wants it distinctly understood that the association is one of Oregon growers and not under the influence of California men, as stated in a recent article that was published in the Oregonian of July 6.

The New Oregon Cooperative Growers' association, organized last week is an association of prominent Oregon men whose interests are in fruits and berries and especially Oregon products. Also interested in getting the growers to cooperate in order that the best of Oregon's fruits may not be sent out into the world as California products and not under California labels. The association intends to inaugurate a publicity campaign for Oregon grown fruits and berries.

In referring to the attempt to discredit the association, Mr. Paulus said: "I was very much interested in an article published in the Sunday Oregonian July 6th, giving the opinion of C. H. Dick of Mason, Ehrman & company relative to the New Oregon Cooperative Growers association. The conclusions which may be drawn from reading the article are so erroneous as to justify me in trying to offer an article of explanation.

"The article attempts by insinuation to infer that California interests are controlling and will predominate the actions of the new association, and in justice to the twenty one growers who are on the board of directors of the new association, I wish to make the statement that there are not at present and will not be, any California interests in control of the Oregon Fruit growers products.

BRITAIN DEMANDING TRIAL OF VON TIRPITZ

London Says Author Of Submarine Warfare Must Make Answer.

London, July 8.—(United Press.)—Great Britain will demand that Admiral Von Tirpitz, author of Germany's submarine warfare, be brought to trial, according to the Times.

After sitting in London and hearing the evidence against the former Kaiser on his responsibility for the war, allied statesmen may formally indict him in the same way that a grand jury operates in hearing a murder case in New York or Chicago.

The possibility was admitted today by a cabinet minister who is in close touch with plans for Wilhelm II's trial. "The entire case is unprecedented," he said. "Every decision must be reached by means of a new international law."

The cabinet minister said it was highly possible that a grand jury would sit in London, and return an indictment against the ex-emperor which would be given out to the world, followed by a request to Holland for extradition. Perhaps Wilhelm may be given an opportunity to present a signed statement of his case before the "jury."

If the verdict branded him as criminally responsible for the war, and Holland refused to give him up, the grand jury would let the indictment stand as its verdict, then sit back ready to pounce upon the Kaiser the moment he set foot outside of Holland.

In case he moved to another neutral country the allied grand jury might again set in motion proceedings for extradition. Such a plan certainly would mean the banishment of the former emperor from any belligerent country. The cabinet member said no suggestion had been made to try the former crown prince.

Senator New Describes Relationship With Boy Who Claims To Be Son

Washington, July 8.—Senator Harry S. New, Indiana, has issued the following statement regarding his connection with Harry S. New, who killed a woman in Los Angeles and who claim, the senator is his father:

"I have just this to say about this whole deplorable matter: More than 30 years ago when I was in my twenties and unmarried, I knew Mrs. George. There never was at any time a question of marriage between us.

"Conditions arose which I did not care to dispute which resulted in my doing everything in my power to make amends then and later. Whatever I did in that direction was of my own accord and no one else had anything whatever to do with it. The affair ended about 30 years ago. Since that time the people of my home city are the best judges of what my life has been. I never shirked responsibility that has come to me and I never shall."

ANARCHISTS OF ROME DEFEATED IN PLOT

Attempt To Seize Grenades And Fortress Blocked By Troops.

By Camillo Cianfranca (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Rome, July 7.—Anarchists attempted today to seize hand grenades deposited in the Pietralata fort, planning afterwards to capture the citadel. Sentries fired on the anarchists and a number of them were arrested.

Police learned of the plot when a soldier revealed that 16 ringleaders were meeting in certain wine shops to prepare plans. The police surrounded the wine shops and arrested the men, among whom were three notorious anarchists.

Simultaneously, officers at the Pietralata fort were awakened when motor cars arrived carrying 30 men. The latter endeavored to induce the soldiers to deliver the grenades. The officers charged them, arresting nine. The others escaped in two cars. A large number of anarchists were arrested in the course of the morning.

Thousands of workers, goaded to desperation over the economic situation, overtook official authority and took the distribution of food in their own hands at Milan Sunday. At dawn parties of workers delegated for the purpose met incoming supply wagons at the city gates and ordered the sale of produce at half price, confiscating goods of those who refused.

In the afternoon lawless elements intervened, scores of shops being looted. Police charged the mobs, causing hundreds of clashes, in which fifty persons were injured and over a thousand arrests were made. Earlier in the day crowds had thronged to all parts of the city, forcing merchants to reduce their prices and place cards in their windows announcing reductions of one-half. The whole city garrison was called out, but it merely regulated the waiting lines who were purchasing foods.

HOGS STILL MOUNT

Chicago, July 8.—Hogs sold at a new record of $22.70 per hundred pounds in the stockyards here today. Dealers predicted $23 hogs by tomorrow or the next day.

Salem's Low Prices Will Be Cut Still Lower on Saturday

A young lady who now lives in Portland but who formerly made her home in Salem was in the city yesterday buying some goods. Asked why she didn't buy in Portland she said: "Oh, things are too awfully high in Portland. I always come to Salem to do my trading where I can buy at much lower prices. Those Portland stores sure do pile on the price."

This may or may not have anything to do with the great bargain day of next Saturday, but it is a fact that is general buying, it isn't necessary to go away from home. In Portland the retail stores are selling cherries at 30 cents a pound.

While prices are already kept to a reasonable figure, yet there is going to be a general reduction all along the line in Salem next Saturday for the annual Bargain Day. For, having tried to co-operative bargain giving twice before, the progressive merchants of the city are now getting together to go one better.

And judging from comments and efforts being made for the day, the wide awake business men will go one better next Saturday in offering bargains, and this right in the face of advancing prices all along the line.

No here you have it: Saturday of this week, July 12, is the Third Annual Bargain Day for the progressive merchants in Salem and those who do have the foresight to come to the city that day, will find genuine specials offered

BIG TASKS WAIT FOR PRESIDENT

Business Piled High Upon Washington Desk; Many Bills To Be Signed And Appointments Made.

ACTION ON BURLESON'S RESIGNATION EXPECTED

Release Of Baker From Job As Secretary, Prohibition And Demobilization Only Few Of Problems.

Washington, July 8.—(United Press.)—President Wilson, returning to the United States today, is confronted with many important issues.

A great number of bills are on his desk at the White House awaiting signature. In addition, he is expected to name a charge d'affaires for the American embassy in Berlin, consult with Secretary Redfield with regard to resumption of commercial relations with Germany, after the trading-with-the-enemy law expires upon proclamation of peace; take action on the postmaster's reported desire of Secretary Baker to retire; to decide when demobilization will be ended and war prohibition may be lifted and take a hand in plans for returning the railroads to their owners.

Many Bills Waiting.
Among the bills before him are the sundry civil, army and navy, general deficiency, the act returning telegraph systems to their owners and the agricultural appropriation bill. The latter contains the clause repealing daylight saving. Petitions have been received against this repeal. The president's attitude toward it is not known.

Immediately upon his return to Washington he is expected to call an important meeting at which for the first time in months he will discuss domestic affairs with his official advisers.

Early decision is looked for on the question whether peace may be proclaimed at once or not until after the senate has ratified the peace treaty.

1920 Campaign Coms.
Demands for removal of Postmaster General Burleson, some of which have taken the form of petitions, are not believed likely to move the president to action.

Friends of Eugene V. Debs and other imprisoned radicals are expected to soon take their appeals to the White House. The 1920 presidential campaign is already beginning to loom and some expression from the president as to a third term may be forthcoming, some believe.
