FARMER IS HURT WHEN MOTOR HITS MACHINE

T. T. Wedel Injured In Collision At Capital And Union Streets.

T. T. Wedel of Salem rural route 7 was seriously injured last evening when his automobile was struck by the Falls City motor car of the Southern Pacific at the crossing of Capital and Union streets.

Mr. Wedel, who is a son of F. B. Wedel of the Deaconess hospital, was severely injured about the head. The automobile which he was driving was thrown to the side of the road from the force of the collision.

The report of the accident coming to the city council was the cause of immediate action being taken once more to compel the Southern Pacific to install safety devices including a warning signal at this most dangerous crossing.

Sometime ago the city brought action before the public service commission to compel the Southern Pacific to install signaling devices at Capital and Union street, as several accidents have happened there the past few years.

It is known to Southern Pacific officials as the most dangerous crossing between Ashland and Portland. Notwithstanding this fact, the railroad attorneys made a successful fight before the public service commission, and the city lost its suit.

Although it is generally known to auto drivers as an unsafe and hazardous crossing, in the report of the commission when it decided against the city the following is stated: "From an examination of the records and from personal inspection of the site of this crossing, we are of the opinion that insofar as the physical conditions are concerned, it is one of the most open crossings in the city of Salem."

The city council does not agree with Commissioners Fred G. Buchtel, H. H. Corey and Fred A. Williams who signed the report June 11, 1919, and for that reason a motion carried at the council last evening providing that the city bring suit against the public service commission requiring it to vacate the order refusing to establish signals at this crossing.

Those most familiar with the crossing state that the real danger is from the Falls City motor car as none of the serious accidents have been from regular trains. As the matter now stands, the question of signaling devices at Capital and Union streets will be tried before the circuit court. The Southern Pacific has at all times fought every effort to secure protection at this crossing, all of which caused Alderman Vandervort to refer to the public service commission as the "Southern Pacific Railroad Protective association."

Girl Found Unconscious On Road; Sheriff Probes

Centralia, Wash., July 22.—Sheriff John Berry is investigating the story of Miss Hazel Overly of Centralia, who was found unconscious at night on the highway.

She said she had fled from an automobile occupied by a man companion, and had been overcome by exhaustion. Her head was bruised.

Suit Of American Wife For Divorce From German Spy Husband Opens Today

San Francisco, July 22.—With the wife in the case frankly declaring her love dead, and with the husband madly in love with his wife, the interesting von Brincken divorce suit came to a hearing today in the court of Superior Judge Flood.

Mrs. Milo Abercrombie von Brincken, a San Francisco beauty of Virginia stock, is suing the ex-baron Wilhelm von Brincken, alleging that she is entitled to a divorce because he was convicted as the brains of the German spy system in the west. Von Brincken is serving a term in the federal prison at McNeill's island.

The attorneys for von Brincken threw out the hint before the trial opened that von Brincken would not contest the suit provided his wife would consent to allow their two children to bear the name of von Brincken.

This is the final chapter in a romance that deeply interested society on the coast, the ex-baron was as handsome as the bride was beautiful. At that time the German lieutenant bore none of the odium attached to that class now.

Mrs. von Brincken stood firmly by her husband through his trial and until near the close of the war. When Germany was beaten and the baron's big estates were confiscated by the revolution, and the baron was imprisoned, the present suit was brought.

Von Brincken figured throughout the Hindu plot trial. He was also mentioned in connection with explosions in Canadian tunnels. He is now pressing an appeal to the president to escape deportation at the end of his prison sentence. He has forewarned allegiance to Germany and shown the United States as a country and fears, he says, that for this act Germany will not treat him.

Insubordination Cause Of Bigbee's Release, Report

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—"Insubordination" was the reason given by Bill Clymer, Seattle manager, for suspending identically Lyle Bigbee, considered Seattle's best pitcher and hitting bet. Baseball circles say Bigbee and Clymer haven't been getting along too well and Bigbee objected strenuously to some of Clymer's orders.

BRYAN LAUGHS AT DEFEAT

Eugene, Or., July 22.—William J. Bryan gave a chatty and non-political after-dinner talk at the Hotel Gelson at noon yesterday the chamber of commerce having invited him a luncheon. Prominent democrats and republicans were in attendance. Proclaiming himself a strong partisan, Mr. Bryan cited history to show that neither party has been able to utterly wreck the country at the times when it was in complete control.

Mr. Bryan proved to the Eugeneans present that he is a good sport by laughing at his own defeat. Mr. Bryan said the fact that he likes cherries has leaked out since he came to Oregon and he has been loaded down with gifts of quantities of the choicest varieties. He said "There is no cherry like the Oregon cherry, and I had your apples in the finest in the world."

He spoke to a large audience of the chautauque tent yesterday afternoon and left last evening for Roseburg.
