CROWDS SWARM

(Continued from page one) great reform that have been, or about to be, accomplished in this country, and from the slowness of their execution he pointed to the need of patience and faith in dealing with the world problems now before us.

It took 21 years to get through congress legislation providing for the direct election of senators; it took 13 years to establish a workable income tax; woman suffrage has been agitated for 50 years, and the prohibition issue has been before the nation longer than that. From the success of those reforms Mr. Bryan hopefully predicts the ultimate solution of the tremendous problems of reconstruction and of world peace. And the most hopeful feature of the feature of the situation is the fact that both the great parties and smaller factions have been able to get together on them.

In the latter part of his address he dealt briefly with the questions of the day—the care of the returned soldier—the building of national highways—the squelching of the profiteers who has been the darkest blot on the history of the war; the government control of public utilities, and greatest of all, the evolution of genuine popular government.

A delightful feature of the afternoon and evening sessions were the concert numbers of the Recital Artists—a trio of musicians who represent 100 per cent pure enjoyment with their violin, piano and flute selections. At the evening

BRYAN BLAMES SALEM

He said he finally accepted the Salem invitation and his reception was so cordial in Oregon that he just continued to speak, keeping in politics and finally landing on the chautauqua platform. Salem, Marion county, also held a warm place in his heart, the orator said. For it was Salem, Marion county, Illinois where he attended school and where he met a woman who became his wife. After leaving Salem, Ill., they went to Nebraska. Mr. Bryan went to congress and then he came to Salem, Oregon, and since then, he has been in the public eye.

The dinner last evening at the Marion was rather an impromptu affair. He was scheduled to arrive in Salem at 8 o'clock in the evening but he traveled on a night train from Ashland, arriving here in the morning. But his friends here did not learn of his presence until later in the day as Mr. Bryan went to Tualatin to visit a cousin.

This morning, before leaving for St. Johns, he was taken about the city and shown the Phez plants. He expressed pleasure in seeing the brewery buildings converted into plants for the manufacture of soft drinks.

Postmaster August Huesteketa presided at the dinner given last evening. Short talks were made by Judge William Galloway and John H. Albert. Miss Tarbell was also a guest at the dinner and spoke briefly as to conditions in France.

FALL REVEALS

"I have very carefully refrained from alluding directly or indirectly with any of the so-called factions in Mexico."

"If Mr. Villa could convince me that he was in position where, if not interfered with by this government, he could restore order and maintain peace and order in Mexico, and thus would be in a position to and would give me satisfactory assurances that he desired and would perform all international obligations, as well as the national obligations to protect foreign citizens and property investments in Mexico, I would without hesitation publicly in the senate or elsewhere, lay before the people of the United States such assurances and frankly and impartially advise them from my knowledge of Mexican affairs as I have heretofore done, just what I thought was best for this government to do in Mexico."

Hunt then discovered the letter to Villa evidently had miscarried and wrote Fall that it appeared Carothers had intercepted it and a copy had been obtained by Carranza.

Fall replied he regretted Hunt wrote to Villa, but he could do more than call for explanations. A few days later, Fall wrote Secretary Lansing that Hunt's mental condition was not what it might be and enclosed copies of his correspondence with Hunt.

The Joy of Living To enjoy life we must have good health. No one can reasonably hope to get much real pleasure out of life when his bowels are clogged a good share of the time and the poisons that should be expelled are absorbed into the system, producing headache and indigestion. ### CABARETS HOLD

(Continued from page one) enough to satisfy the most talented joy chaser. Prices of food have been boosted to meet expenses. Some entertainers have received the blue envelope but there is some optimism over the future. And liquor is not unobtainable to a good winker.

In St. Louis they have pook-pooked at prohibition. Cabarets are gliding along, peddling two and three quarters, adding entertainers and catching the night hawks. Theaters are doing an increased business.

Baltimore's cabarets are operating at about half speed with watered beer and soft drinks. Food prices are increasing. Many saloons have turned in their licenses.

Cleveland theaters are speeding up but fifty percent of the cafes there have closed. Some, however, are making good on a soft drink basis, with strong food prices. Entertainers entire Chicago's cabarets are not closing. Crowds are placed, but are satisfied with better entertainment and higher food prices. Lobsters have grown cheaper. Community singing has helped some.

In Pittsburg the cabarets fought back feebly and most of them have been closed for some time. Night restaurants there are doing a poor business with prices increased. Theaters are doing well. Hotels are reaping a better harvest, with dancing permitted. Near beer and fancy soft drinks are more popular.

San Francisco saw only one cabaret of importance closed. After theater crowds, however, have vanished. Cafes are making a strenuous effort to keep the white lights burning.

THIS MAKES THE CURL STAY IN YOUR HAIR

The silmerine method of curling the hair is unusually popular just now, according to the druggists. This is largely due to the warm weather and because women are now spending so much of their time out of doors. Liquid silmerine not only produces the loveliest, natural looking curls and waves, but it keeps the hair in curl no matter how hot or how moist the day, or how hard the wind blows.

It is simply wonderful how this hair liquid converts the straightest, lankest hair into such pretty curly locks in a single night. All one need do is wet a clean tooth brush with liquid silmerine at bedtime, draw this through the hair, and in the morning she finds her hair has dried in just the sweetest waves and crinkles. A few ounces will keep the hair curly for many weeks. It will also keep it beautifully soft, silky and lustrous.

session the star attraction was Miss Mary Adele Hays, in a series of soprano solos that captivated the throng. The beauty of her high notes was remarkably brought out in one of the operatic numbers in which she contended with the flute. In the upper registers her voice actually showed purer than the flute notes.

Today is to be made memorable by the appearance of Ciner and his noted Czech-Slovak band—an aggregation of artists from the land of music and romance and tragedy. Ciner, who is classed with the great directors of the day, is himself a trombone artist of the highest type, and will render solos at both the afternoon and evening concerts. With the band is Madam Cafarella, a dramatic soprano of operatic fame, who will contribute a series of vocal numbers with band accompaniment.
