DEMPSEY ADVISED TO DEFEND TITLE HERE

Champion Warned Against Trying To Beat Rules Of English Rings.

By H. C. Hamilton
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
New York, Aug. 1.—If Jack Dempsey agrees to go to London to fight Joe Becket or Georges Carpentier, he will be flying in the face of fate and past history of American boxers.

The American fight follower is jealous of his country's reputation as a producer of champions and will howl loud and long if Dempsey allows himself to be lured abroad before defending his title in this country.

It seems improbable that Jack Kearns who has showed so much astute business sense in guiding Dempsey to the world's championship, will now walk blindly into the pitfall where so many Americans have fallen.

The average American sports follower takes defeat with victory and generally shuts up about it. He is not the kind who cries over a loss, but he is unable just now to erase from his memory the defeat of Willie Ritchie by Freddie Welsh, the defeat of Joe Lynch by Jimmy Wilde, the victory of Wilde over Pal Moore, and the feat of Georges Carpentier in winning from Gusbons Smith, although he had been knocked out to all intents and purposes by the American heavyweight.

There must be some queer twist to English rules that boxers on this side of the water cannot fathom. What it is no one yet has been able to figure out. Eugene Corri gave a world's championship to Freddie Welsh, although Willie Ritchie chased the Welshman all over the twenty-four foot ring they fought in and scored heavily numerous times.

Corri also gave Wilde a decision over Pal Moore, although England's sensational little man was practically exhausted and was bleeding freely from the punishment bestowed on him by the American. He said Moore had fouled and thus lost the decision. He should have disqualified the American if there was fouling.

With this history to gaze upon Jack Dempsey would do well to do his title-defending on this side of the ocean. New Jersey would like to see Becket or Carpentier in action against the champion and it would pay Kearns to insist on the fight's being staged in this country. Dempsey is champion and has the privilege of naming the site for a championship encounter. He will make no mistake if he exercises it.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—VALLIE B. BARTON, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

The report, incidentally, disclosed alleged details of the operations of the great American packers in foreign countries, especially in Great Britain.

An attempt to prevent immediate publicity for the report was made. Senator Cummins, Iowa, suggested it be referred to the interstate commerce committee without reading.

Later Senator Calder, New York, asked unanimous consent to suspending the reading of the report. Objection by Senator LaFollette prevented this second attempt.

Today Telephone Properties Are Returned

After a year of federal control, the Telephone property, which makes up the Bell Telephone System is today returned to its owners by the United States government.

While the property has been properly maintained, it is not the same property which the government took over on August 1, 1918.

It is not as adequate for its job or as well manned as it was; that it is not, is in now way the fault of the federal control which was eminently fair. It is due to causes for which neither the government nor the companies are to blame. A year ago today we were at war. Labor and materials needed for both telephone operation and construction were turned to Military uses. Some materials were so vital to the carrying on of the war that even the work of providing telephone facilities for the government was retarded and no part of them could be spared for the commercial telephone purposes. No less vital was the government need for these skilled to create, maintain and operate the vast intercommunication systems necessary in modern warfare and in the conduct of the vastly increased government services.

Thousands of telephone men were already at the battle front. Thousands more were under arms, and still telephone experts and skilled operators went into the service of the government and contributory industries by the tens of thousands. The reserves of plant and equipment were drawn upon until they were entirely used up, and the experienced staff was gradually depleted. To find others to take the places of those who had gone was difficult; to train them takes time. During the year came Victory and the armistice, and instantly the business world sprang into intense activity. The demands for telephone service passed all former records. To replace the exhausted reserves which had been carried for just such purpose and to replace the skilled forces to meet this unprecedented emergency there began a rush for construction, for readjustment, for high pressure repairs, for feverish extensions. All these must be continued with increasing effort. The return of the property comes in the very midst of this race between an overpowering demand, and an upbuilding of a system whose growth was held back and whose forces were scattered by the vital needs of war.

Much progress has been made in the upbuilding of this system, but far more is still required to meet the swift growth of business; and also to give "First Aid" to every other business and every other service struggling against an unprecedented demand. The prosperity which creates this emergency in service creates also a scarcity of those desiring employment in the service. Under such conditions telephone service has not been and could not be up to the pre-war standard. It is beyond human power to immediately overcome the handicap which the situation imposes. There are no people in any public or private endeavor who are working more tirelessly or strenuously for the common good than those of the telephone companies. Service has always been given, more of it must be given, and it must be improved. That improvement in some cases will take months. Eventually service must win the race with demand.
