

CITY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, Miss Josephine M. Campbell and Hubert Campbell of Los Angeles, who have been spending a month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Smith on the Wallace road, will leave Monday for their home.

In regard to the new car that Henry Ford is working on, George Visk who recently returned from Detroit and a conference with Ford, says that it is to be an eight cylinder, air cooled car, and that it will sell for about $1000. The Ford factory which was manufacturing the "Kaglet" boats for the government has been converted into an automobile factory for this new car. But there need be no such about buying. Mr. Visk said, as the car will not be on the market until the fall of 1920.

Now that the telegraph companies have been returned by the government to their owners, the chances are good for competition. Inquiry at the Western Union as to rates brought forth the reply that a ten word day message to Chicago would cost $1 and to New York, $1.30. At the Postal day rate for a ten word day message to Chicago was given as 45 cents and to New York, $1.30.

Dr. F. G. Franklin of Willamette university came in from Albany last night and this morning left for Portland where he will join the Mazamas on their annual outing. There are about 150 in the party, and their objective this season is the summit of Mt. Rainier. Dr. Franklin was formerly a member of the Sierra club of California, and has climbed to a height of 13,000 feet without discomfort, so is confident Mt. Rainier, although it is over 14,000 feet and very hard climbing. The party will go to Tacoma tomorrow, and from there to Ashcroft, from which point their long hike is started. Their camp will be a mile or two above Paradise Inn on Mazama ridge, at an elevation of about 6000 feet. From there side trips will be made to various peaks, glaciers and lakes, the entire outing occupying two weeks. Each member of the party pays a fee of $45 from Portland, which covers all expenses of the trip.

A building permit has been issued to Ennis Wait for a one story frame building to be erected at 431 North Front street. It will cost about $100 and Frank Baker is the builder.

FIRE PATROL PLANES
ION MAPPING FLIGHT

Lieutenant Keil And Sergeant McKee Leave On Tour Of Circuit

The two airplanes which arrived in the city recently for fire patrol service, left this morning at 10:20 on their tour of inspection of the timber region of western Oregon with a view to determining the flying time required for the circuit and to look for favorable landing sites. The two pilots, Lieut. Keil and Sgt. McKee, took with them as observers State Forester Elliott and R. A. Chapler, of the U. S. forest service.

Prior to starting on this air tour the visitors held a long conference with Governor Olcott and Mr. Elliott, in which they mapped out tentative plans for the service, deciding that the time being the planes should make their headquarters in Salem, Ellensburg, it is expected that a station will be placed at Roseburg, although the landing facilities at that point are not sufficient for safety. It is noted that Salem will be one of the stations, and it is expected that the state fair board will shortly take up the matter of providing suitable housing for the planes on the fair grounds.

According to the plans considered yesterday the two planes in their flight today will take the following route: One to leave in a southeasterly direction, passing over Medford and Foster and landing at Eugene; returning by way of Paisley, Mountain, Mary's Peak, and Bull Mountain. The other to take a westerly direction, following the coast northward and circling east to a landing at Portland; returning it was to circle eastward to the foothills, then southward and westward to Salem.

It is hoped that after a series of the service demonstrated at least four planes can be put into the service in the inter-mountain region so that the entire territory from the Columbia to the California border can be covered at least every other day. The plans contemplate flight of about two hours from Salem to outlying landing fields, the sending of reports, and then the return flight to Salem. In case of emergency drop messages between landing would be used.

State House.

Statistics in the office of State Engineer Capper show that since the enactment of the irrigation district law in 1917 the irrigation securities commission has certified bonds to the extent of $3,595,000, the principal projects being as follows: Ochoco district $1,100,000; Warm Springs district $250,000; Payette-Oregon slope district $225,000; Squaw creek district $250,000; Hood River district $167,000; Gold Hill district $60,000; Talent district $175,000; Teel district $500,000. In addition to these applications are pending for the certification of bonds on other projects to the amount of over $1,500,000.

The Langell-irrigation district of Klamath county, have recently forwarded to Engineer Capper blue prints and complete plans of their project for approval. The district comprises 30,000 acres.

The public service commission has just returned from Seattle where they remained for the completion of the rate hearing before the interstate commerce commission. This case, which deals with rates on transcontinental lines running into Portland and Seattle, has occupied the greater part of two weeks, and was the most exhaustive in the history of the northwest.

PORTLAND PUBLISHERS WORK

(Woodburn Independent.) Increase in newspaper rates is advised by thoughtful and far-seeing newspaper men, but here in this state, we have a so called fraternal newspaper man who has secured the passage of a law decreasing rates. Some would call him a "rat" while others would consider him in the "soph" class. We have reference to the proprietor of the Portland Journal, who could have no other object in view in proposing a law providing for lowering of legal rate advertising in the state, not including Portland, than the paralysis of papers published outside of that city. There could be no other object in having these rates reduced when wages and everything else were advancing. It was pure spite work directed at these publications. This is probably one reason why the Portland Telegram has made such wonderful gains throughout Oregon. The country papers were not competing with or unfriendly toward the Journal, whose proprietor sought to hold them down or kill them off. We are under the impression that the country publishers think of removing their bodies, paying employees so that they can do likewise, and then think of what Jackson has done to them. It is regretted, even for the Journal's sake that it is now too late to remedy the matter. The publishers affected should combine and demand that this law also include Portland. Let the voters decide.

New Britain, Conn.—One local liquor dealer has come up smiling from the dust of prohibition. Two signs in his window read: "No near beer sold here," and "No beer sold near here."

Bayonne, N. J.—So many automobiles have been stolen here that in the future the police will stop every car between 9 p. m. and 6 a. m. and compel the driver to identify himself.

Shelton, Or.—Help is so scarce in this vicinity that women are compelled to work in the harvest fields to prepare the grain for threshing.

Two Boys Arrested For Murder Of Bandon Girl

Bandon, Ore., Aug. 2.—Charged with the murder of Lillian Leuthold, 16, Carol Warson, 18, and Harold Howell, 15, were arrested here today. Fearing that the boys might be lynched at Bandon the authorities removed them to the Coquille jail.

The girl's dead body was found Monday evening hidden in the brush at a lonely spot near her home.

A gun, the same caliber as the bullet which killed the girl was found in the possession of Howell. The boys were seen in the vicinity of the scene of the murder Sunday afternoon when Lillian was killed.

The indications were that an unsuccessful attempt had been made to assault the girl before she was murdered.

Arrangements Under Way To Have Big Elk Band Play Here

Arrangements are now under way for the appearance in Salem, at least for half an hour, of a massed Elk band of 60 pieces, weather and other conditions permitting.

From Portland comes the announcement that the Portland Elks' band will go to Klamath Falls with 40 pieces, all boasting for Salem for the 1920 state convention. Director Oscar Steinhilber says he will have in the Salem Elks' band at least 20 pieces, all Elks. At a conference held in Salem yesterday among several leading state Elks, it developed that the special Elk train from Portland to Klamath Falls will arrive in Salem at 12:30 o'clock p. m. Wednesday, August 13, and on this special will be the Portland band with H. N. Stuenkel as director.

The Salem band is accustomed to playing under the direction of Mr. Stuenkel and a few days ago when he was visiting in Salem it was arranged with Director Steinhilber that both of the bands should take up the study of certain selections in order to play as a massed band at Klamath Falls.

The special Salem Elks' coach will be attached to the Portland Elks' special. As the train will be traveling on its own time, it is thought that arrangements can be made for a short concert about noon of Wednesday, Aug. 13, in Willson Park.

Infatuation For Wife Of Brother Leads To Double Murder And Then Suicide

Lamar, Wash., Aug. 2.—Infatuated with his brother's wife Henry Krone Thursday night shot and killed Mr. and Mrs. George Krone. Then, throwing an arm around the dead woman as she lay in the road, he sent a third bullet through his own brain.

Joe, the Krone dog, brought to Walla Walla by deputies, escaped and today ferociously guards the bloodstained home.

Henry Krone, who had served with the 91st division in France, was arrested June 23 charged with threatening his brother's life. He served a day and was released.

Thursday he bought a gun. In the evening he went out to the Krone home. A quarrel ensued. George Krone ran from the house. Henry shot him dead as he ran. As the woman followed, Henry shot her. She fell screaming. Henry sent another bullet through her brain. Then he lay down beside her in the road, killed her on the lips and shot himself.

A sister of Mrs. Krone, Miss Junia Prefath, lives at Centralia.

SMALL GETS POSITION.

Brazier C. Small has been appointed by the State Industrial Accident Commission as special agent for the legal department at a very handsome salary. He will assume his new duties August 1.

Mr. Small's business will be to look after the settlement of claims from delinquent corporations and from duties will necessitate his traveling throughout the state. His office will be with the commission at Salem.

The position given Mr. Small is one of the best to be secured, as it requires one versed in law and an energetic man. We predict that he will fill the office with credit to the state. He is to be congratulated on securing such a fine position.—Turner Tribune.

Fish Are Planted In Marion County Creeks

A car containing 160,000 fish arrived today from the Bonneville state hatchery to be distributed in four creeks in and near Silverton, namely: Silver creek, Butte creek, Drift creek and Abiqu creek.

Norris Ames, one of Silverton's true sports enthusiasts, shouldered the entire expense and the bulk of the work in placing the fish in the above creeks. Mr. Ames stated that he did this because he wanted to see good fishing here, wanted to "catch a string" himself, and incidentally create more business for his sale of fishing supplies.

The Abiqu creek comes first with 65,000 fish, and the cans will be dumped both above and below the water intake dam so that the minnows will replenish the entire creek. Like methods have been used in Silver creek where 60,000 fish were planted both above and below the dams in this city, and in Butte creek both above and below the dam in Butte. Drift creek the above method was not necessary.

Fishermen of the state will note that these streams another season will contain some good "holes," although the past season has been unusually good for the local sport.—Silverton Appeal.

Secure Right Of Way For Stayton Railroad

(Capital Journal Special Service.) Stayton, Ore., Aug. 2.—Wednesday evening in response to invitations issued by Mr. Lynott, representative of the Portland & Southern Railroad company, about fifty of the citizens of Stayton gathered at the Stayton hotel, where they were served an exceptionally excellent dinner. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing matters pertaining to the proposed road. Mr. Lynott stated what the road wanted from the people of Stayton—the right-of-way from and including the J. S. Lambert place north-west of town where the survey crosses the San Juan river at Mahama. Several interesting talks were made by some of those present, and Messrs. Joe Kehler, Smith, and another gentleman from Mt. Angel who were there made some interesting remarks regarding what is being done by their town toward helping extend the road. The meeting was an enthusiastic one, every present being strongly in favor of granting the company what it asks. A committee, headed by J. W. Mayo, was appointed, and these men have since been busy securing right-of-way and it is thought that within a few days this will be ready to turn over to the company. Linn county towns are putting forth strenuous efforts to secure the road, but Mr. Lynott promises that if Stayton secures the required right-of-way the road will be built through here as surveyed and that work will be begun within the year. At about 10 o'clock the party dispersed, after congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Lesley on the excellence of the repast they had prepared.

Thursday was the birthday of Mrs.

Thursday night at about 11 o'clock the fire bell got a number of citizens out of bed. Fire had been discovered in the sawmill of the Brown-Peterson company and although not in the mill pile, it was feared that it might travel there, in which case it would be almost impossible to extinguish. The fire company put in some hard ticks until the city pump went out of commission, but they had the fire under control before this occurred and by morning the fire was about out.
