has on his desk while he is drafting his message were submitted to him yesterday by Attorney General Palmer. They were drawn up by a committee of eleven cabinet members and other high government officials, after consultation with economic experts and after studying a report submitted by Federal Trade Commission Colver, Rail Director Hines and Assistant Treasury Secretary Lettingwell, who surveyed the whole food situation.

Palmer also told the president that all the machinery of the department of justice had already been set in motion to stop food hoarding and profiteering and indicated he intended to make examples of some of the worst offenders. Julius H. Barnes, head of the United States grain corporation, has taken steps to bring about an immediate reduction in food prices by forcing down the price of flour. Barnes announced he would sell standard export flour everywhere in the United States at $10 a barrel, which is $1 a barrel lower than any price prevalent during the last four months.

The guaranteed wheat price to farmers, $2.26 a bushel, will be maintained Barnes stated. An excess profit tax that would reach every profiteer was advocated today by Senator Capper, Kansas. He announced he is working on a bill to that end. At lover "a reasonable profit" would be turned into the government treasury under his plan.

Nothing in his plan would be allowed to interfere with legitimate profits. He proposed a judicial commission which would determine the legitimate margins for various lines of business. Income tax files of the collector of internal revenue, which contain a detailed statement of expenses and profits of every business man in the United States, would be made available. Ample authority would be given to prevent padding of costs to cover profits.

Vice-President White of Armour & company, testifying before the senate sub-committee investigating profiteering, also suggested an excess profits tax of this nature. Such taxes would catch dealers who were profiteering in stores at present, he said.

New York Transit Company Employees Partly Out Today

New York, Aug. 6.—Several hundred employees of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company went on strike at 5 o'clock this morning following refusal of Lindley M. Garrison, receiver, to grant demands including 75 cents an hour, an eight hour day and recognition of their new union.

Company officials admitted their elevated and subway lines were affected, "largely through intimidation of loyal employees" but contended their surface lines were maintaining full service.

The final vote to strike was taken at a mass meeting at 4 o'clock this morning, attended by about 2500 men, who said they spoke for 8000 of the company's 13,000 employees.

Secretary Jenks, of the Willamette Prune association, has recently received from the Oregon Nursery company at Oreoc, samples of a new plum which he expects will figure very largely in the future fruit crops of this valley. This is a late seedling product which has been called the Shiro plum. The fruit is perfectly spherical, beautifully colored, somewhat tart in flavor, and firm enough in texture for either canning or shipping. The samples were sent by M. M. McDonald, formerly of this city, now at the head of the nursery company, and along with the plums he sent samples of a new seedling cherry which he expects to become popular with the dealers. It is about the size of the Lambert but not quite so dark in color. The flavor is especially fine and the texture suitable for either canning or maraschino products.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Jenks were participants in a recent barbecue picnic held at the grounds of the St. Joe Orchards company, on the banks of Yamhill river about 24 miles from Salem. They were accompanied from Salem by Mrs. Jane Gile and Miss Mina Gile. A considerable group of the families of the orchard company were present and a most enjoyable time was spent about the grounds and the river, a feature being a long trip by boat up and down the stream. Mr. Jenks, who is interested in the orchards, declares it to be one of the most beautiful spots in the valley, and it is also proving to be one of the most productive properties. There are over 700 acres in the tract, 300 acres or more being in orchard fruits. This season they have planted 100 acres more to small fruits.

F. E. Carleton, of the department of education at the state house, returned recently from a visit in Salt Lake city, where he attended a conference of western educators and public men gathered for the purpose of discussing national and state legislation along educational lines. There were about 150 prominent men in attendance, among them a number of federal representatives who are interested especially in the matter of vocational education and part time schools. Mr. Carleton addressed the body in a discussion of the Oregon laws, and a comparison of notes showed that this state held an advanced position in vocational work. Only the state of Utah is ahead of Oregon in the matter of compulsory attendance that state providing that boys and girls must attend some type of school until the age of 18.

At a meeting held last evening at the Commercial club by the committee of employers to discuss voluntary mediation of labor troubles, it was decided that T. B. Kay of the Kay Woolen Mills and T. E. McCroskey, manager of the Commercial club, should interview employers and find out if they were disposed to enforce voluntary mediation. If there is a disposition on the part of the larger employers in the city to line up with voluntary mediation, a committee of three will then be appointed to confer with those who represent the employees. At the meeting last evening there were present T. B. Kay, W. H. Hamilton, E. Hofer, David W. Eyre and T. E. McCroskey.
