Doctor Tells How to Detect Harmful Effects of Tobacco

Try These SIMPLE TESTS

New York.—Dr. Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital, says: Hundreds of thousands of men who smoke and chew and who believe themselves healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. They would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco and most of them would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco.

The best known habit forming principal of tobacco is nicotine, but the most deadly and demoralizing is furfural. Both are deadly poisons, which, when absorbed by the system slowly, but surely, affect the nerves, membrane, tissues, vital organs and vitality of the body.

The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances and the individual. In some it causes general debility, other catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, cowardice and fear, mental confusion, etc.; in others it causes heart disease, bronchial troubles, hardening of the arteries, palpitation of the heart, tuberculosis, blindness, cancer and the common affliction known as tobacco heart.

If you use tobacco in any form you easily detect its harmful effects by making the following simple tests: Read aloud a full page from a book. If your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct and you must frequently clear your throat the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of very serious catarrhal trouble. Next, in the morning, before taking your usual smoke, walk the guaranteed price in March; fifteen cents over April 1, to April 15; 16 cents over April 16 to 20, and 20 cents from April 21 to April 30.

Under these prices something like 70,000,000 bushels were put in the domestic markets of the country and even then we had to curtail shipments to foreign buyers. Of course to the above prices, the miller must add the railroad rates."

"Mr. Barnes has apparently forgotten these increases come directly from the pockets of the people and that higher priced wheat means higher prices for all other commodities," McCulloch said. "I think the responsibility for the high cost of living rests largely on him."

STATE HOUSE NEWS

At the meeting of the highway commission in Portland yesterday a block of $1,000,000 worth of road bonds was sold to a group of dealers composed of Carstens & Earle, of Seattle; W. E. Compton, Bankers Trust company, of New York, and the Northern Trust company of Chicago, their bid being $991,500. It is believed that an even better price would have been received had it not been for the disturbance in the eastern markets.

The most serious matter that confronted the commission in this meeting was the fact that there was probability of the road funds falling short in completing the Oregon road program, owing to the constantly increasing cost of labor and materials. The situation is complicated by the fact that the federal appropriation for co-operative road building is larger than anticipated, and to meet it the state must raise $5,600,000 in addition to the $10,000,000 already provided for. Furthermore, the question as to whether the state is authorized under the constitution to sell bonds for this purpose is still in the hands of Attorney General Brown, awaiting an opinion. Should this opinion prove to be unfavorable, there would be no recourse but to take the amount out of the $10,000,000 general fund in order to avoid losing the federal appropriation entirely. This would mean the curtailment of many road projects mapped out, and the commission has already decided to postpone the selection of some routes that have been under consideration.

Three more members of the Oregon legislature have notified Governor Olcott of their willingness to co-operate in a special session of the legislature. These are Representative D. C. Thomas of Linx, Representative S. H. Huston of Multnomah and Representative H. C. Wheeler of Lane. This makes a total of 49 that are lined up—less than one-third of the entire body, and unless greater interest is manifested it is not likely Governor Olcott will feel justified in calling the session.

LEAGUE BETTER

he said. General Bliss, in the name of the other delegates, wrote a letter to the president a week before the Shantung question was settled, Lansing said.

"The president conferred with the commissioners in connection with the Japanese situation and he wanted to know if we would communicate our views in writing," Lansing told the committee.

"General Bliss prepared a letter which he showed to Mr. White and myself and we concurred in it. It was some days before the Shantung decision was announced and was in the nature of advice to the president."

"Did the advice correspond with what was accomplished?" asked Senator Borah.

"No," Lansing replied. Lansing denied the letter was a protest since it was written about a week before the peace conference announced its decision.

"Do you recall the contents of the letter?" Borah asked.

"I shouldn't want to; it was a letter from General Bliss to the president," Lansing answered.

"Is it available to the committee?" asked Borah.

"Not from the state department," Lansing said. "That is a private communication."

Lansing, appearing before the committee for the first time since his return from Paris, was questioned regarding many phases of the peace conference.

Senators questioned him closely about China and Japan and about the various plans for a league of nations.

Lansing said the Chinese delegates appealed to American delegates at Paris to protect their interests from encroachments by Japan.

He said that President Wilson recently suggested that a demand by the French senate for confidential minutes of the peace conference be refused, as it might cause embarrassment because of the frank nature of some of the discussions.

Lansing said it would be some time before the records of the conference would be brought to America, as they were being used for preparation of the other treaties.

"Then there is some question about their being available to us?" Senator Brandegee inquired.

"If they relate to the commission we will have to get the permission of other governments to submit them," Lansing answered.

Lansing said he was not on the commission and could not say what discussions occurred that would make publication undesirable.

In answer to a question from Borah, Lansing said he would have to investigate before he say what knowledge the state department had of the secret agreement between Japan and the allies when the Lansing-Ishii agreement was reached in November, 1917.

"I presume you had good information with reference to the 21 demands of Japan on China," Borah suggested.

"Yes," answered Lansing. He denied that the discussion during

PACKARD SUFFERED 25 LONG YEARS

Los Angeles Man Says Tanlac Restored Him To Health.

"I tried for twenty five long years to find a medicine that would relieve me of my suffering, but all my efforts failed completely until I got hold of this Tanlac," said Alonzo Packard, a well known cabinet maker employed at the American Novelty Works and lives 122 West 26th street, Los Angeles, Cal., a few days ago.

"During all these years," he continued, "my stomach was in such a bad condition that everything I ate disagreed with me. I would often be so bloated up with gas that I was hardly able to get a good breath. My appetite was very poor, and what little I did eat didn't seem to give me any nourishment at all, and I just went down hill until I was so weak and completely run down that I was hardly able to get about. In fact, my entire system was in very bad condition. I tried a great many different medicines and treatments, but I just seemed to get worse all the time instead of better."

"Then I decided to see what Tanlac would do for me, and I just want to say now, that from that time on, I didn't have to bother about any other medicine, for I commenced to improve right from the start, and now I am as well and hearty as I ever was in my life. I never have that tired, worn out feeling any more, and my stomach troubles have been completely overcome. I have a ravenous appetite, and eat just anything I want, and I never suffer the least bit afterwards. I am in better condition generally than I have been in many years. Yes, sir, I am seventy years old and have taken a great many different medicines in my life, but this Tanlac beats anything I have ever tried. I am glad to have the opportunity to recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Salem by Dr. E. C. Stone, in Hubbard by Hubbard Drug Co., in Mt. Angel by Bea Goach, in Garvins by John Kelly, in Turner by M. P. Cornelius, in Woodburn by Lyman H. Shorey, in Silverton by Ove A. Steelhammer, in Gates by Mrs. J. P. McCurdy, in Stayton by C. A. Beachamp, in Aurora by Aurora Drug Store, in St. Paul by Groceteria Stores Co., in Donald by M. W. Johnson, in Jefferson by Foskey & Mason, and in Mill City by Marketeria Gro. Co.

the framing of the agreement turned on the 21 points.

"Then it was in no sense an endorsement of the 21 demands?" Borah remarked.

"Absolutely not," Lansing replied. "We were opposed to them."

"And it was also an endorsement of the so-called secret agreements?" Borah pressed.

"No," Lansing answered. "One reason the Lansing-Ishii agreement was entered into was because of Japan's attitude toward China and to secure from Japan a declaration of the open door policy, which we did."

"If you had known of the 21 points and the secret agreements, would it have changed the nature of the Lansing-Ishii agreement?" asked Borah.

"No, I don't know that it would," replied Lansing.

When Borah asked if China protested against the Lansing-Ishii agreement, Lansing said he would have to "look it up."

When Lansing said he could not recall just when the secret agreements between Japan and the allies were learned of by the state department, Borah asked that he get the exact information for the committee.

Questioning then turned on the attitude of the American delegates toward China at the peace conference.

"Did China make an appeal to the United States with reference to her territorial integrity and for the good office of the United States?" Senator New asked.

"I do not think there was anything formal," Lansing replied. "The Chinese delegates saw our delegates and discussed the matter with them."

"Then they did make an informal appeal," Lansing objected.

"How did the United States meet it?" New continued.

"I don't know how the president met it," Lansing said.

Lansing objected to discussing whether the United States used her influence in getting China to enter the war and said he preferred to make a detailed statement on the subject.
