NEIGHBORS HONOR DR. HILL
Albany, Or., Aug. 6.—The esteem in which the late Dr. J. L. Hill, prominent Albany physician for almost half a century, was held in this vicinity was shown by the presence of hundreds of people from Albany and the surrounding country at his funeral yesterday afternoon, by the wealth of floral offerings and by the sincere manifestation of sorrow on every mind.

The funeral was held in the First Baptist church here, and the services were conducted by Dr. George H. Young, pastor of the church. The burial service at the Masonic cemetery was conducted by the local Masonic lodge with Judge L. L. Swan presiding.

County Judge W. R. Blyden, an old friend of Dr. Hill from pioneer days to the present, also delivered a eulogy at the grave. The pallbearers were Circuit Judge Percy R. Kelly, M. Scanders, Walter M. Parker, George W. Cline, Edward Dorgan and R. A. Murphy.

District South of Rosedale Leads County in Production of Prunes Reports Indicate

While the general impression is that the greatest prune district in the county is around Liberty and to Rosedale, the fact is, the greatest acreage in the county is just south of Rosedale towards the Ankeny hill.

In the report of John Cornforth, just filed with Assessor West, there is given an acreage of 1232 bearing prunes with 429 acres non-bearing in the district of about 30 sections lying just south of Salem and extending one mile south of Rosedale.

Yet in the district south of Rosedale, extending to the Ankeny hill, there are 1822 acres in prunes in bearing with 477 acres not yet producing.

However, taking the prune district just south of Salem as a whole, in what is known as the red hill country, there are 3074 acres in bearing prunes with 897 acres non-producing. This is almost one-half the prune acreage of the county.

In the 7200 acres in fruit and grain in the district just south of Salem, including Rosedale and Liberty, there are only 237 acres in winter wheat and 222 acres in spring wheat. Oats as usual in all districts is the heaviest grain crop with 348 acres.

In this district barley is credited with 35 acres, rye 5 acres, corn 240, clover 29, alfalfa 34 and hay crops 414 acres. This acreage is from the 7200 assessed by Mr. Cornforth.

This section of the county adjoining the south limits of Salem is strong for all fruits, as out of the 7200 acres included in the report, 101 are in bearing apples with 13 non-bearing, 121 acres in cherries with 39 non-bearing, 17 acres in peaches with 27 not yet producing and 22 acres of pears with none coming on.

This district is giving some attention to walnuts as while but one acre is producing, 77 acres are coming on.

Loganberries are cultivated in this district to the extent of 332 acres, while a little south towards the Ankeny hill the growers are not so strong for this berry. The section just north of Salem is strong for logan with 496 acres in bearing. Howell Prairie section has 135 acres in logan, while the Silverton district has but 48 acres.

Scouts Mills is strong for prunes but cares little for logan as there are but 4 acres bearing and in the section south of Silverton and east of Howell Prairie there is but one acre in logan.

The Mt. Angel district is not adapted to loganberries as there are but six acres in cultivation. In the Fairfield district, including St. Louis and Germain, there are 189 acres of loganberries. In the close-in Woodburn section there are 124 acres in logan, but around Sublimity there is no interest in logan as the record shows but 5 acres.

St. Paul and the Champeog districts are weak on logan as there are but 17 acres in that section. The Butteville and Aurora section is into the loganberry business to the extent of 73 acres. Around Monitor there are only four acres in logan.

The Waldo Hills section around Maeloy has not as yet climbed into the loganberry band wagon as there are but 38 acres in bearing. But Waldo Hills is strong for prunes with 492 acres in bearing and 37 coming on.

In the Garden Road district east of Salem there are 172 acres in logan. The district around Marion has not as yet felt the impulse of the loganberry boom as but 46 acres are in bearing. In the district between the Ankeny hill and Jefferson, there are 36 acres of logan. Aumsville has but one solitary acre while in the forks of the Santiam and Willamette rivers, there is only 7 acres in loganberries. The Stayton section has but one acre in the famous vine.

ONE BIG TWO-SECTION FLEET DANIELS' IDEA

Secretary Of Navy Would Merge Pacific And Atlantic Squadrons.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 6.—(United Press).—Two great naval forces to be known as American fleets numbers one and two, ready for equally effective service on either the Atlantic or Pacific is what Secretary of the Navy Daniels believes should be the American naval plan.

"To my mind, there should be no Pacific fleet and no Atlantic fleet," the secretary declared today in an interview just before leaving for San Diego by automobile. "It should be American fleets number one and number two, equally divided and capable of being quickly shifted from one coast to another as occasion arises."

"Ever since my first visit here, I have felt that the Pacific coast, because of many advantages which we all know, should have a much greater share of our naval establishment," Daniels continued. "There should be larger naval bases, more drydock repair stations, larger training stations and an equal division of the great American fleet. This is a great climate, you know, a fine place for men to live and prosper; and the commerce of the Pacific has a tremendous future and a splendid present."

Discussing the plan for the establishment of a "second Annapolis" on the coast, Daniels declared it was a matter which is yet to be taken up with officials of various Pacific coast cities. He said he proposed to study the matter while in the west and, consider the many advantages the west has to offer.

Open Forum

Editor Journal: I saw in the Pacific Homestead of July 31 that Ed Cary of Carlton made the remark that "The dairyman who says he is making money under present conditions is not keeping cost records or else he is either a fool or a liar."

Now I have been dairying for the past 20 years and I can prove that there is just as much money in dairying now as there ever was before.

Mr. Cary may call me a fool for making that statement but I have one consolation that these people who pull from 6000 to $2100 for cows at Mr. Cary's sale are bigger fools yet if there is no money in dairying, and why is it that Mr. Cary is still keeping cows? Why don't he sell out altogether and quit the business?

The Razor

Lincoln used

THE razor Lincoln used was not unlike the man himself—in outward form, unassuming, and yet an instrument of exquisite balance—with a time-saving length of blade, a fresh, keen-stropped edge for the work in hand and a vondrously even temper.

One pictures Lincoln as full of affection for this honest blade despite the fact that his deep-furrowed face was not the easiest to shave. The only things that Lincoln's razor really needed to lighten the patient morning task were the safety and convenience of the guarded, double-edged blade of the
