Fred Justafson has recently purchased an improved five acre tract just south of the city limits, paying $2000. He recently came here from Bolt, Montana. On the tract is a bungalow. The land is in apples and peaches. S. R. Peck has purchased from Fred W. Durbin a five room house at 1290 North Winter street. The consideration was $1350. Both sales were handled by W. H. Grabenhorst & Co.

The Roseburg Commercial club is several months ahead of the Salem Commercial club in issuing a booklet giving general information as to the country in that part of the state. The Roseburg booklet tells all about the raising of brocoli, the winter cauliflower, and the other industries, especially prunes. All this information is based on the 1919 census and the latest information. There has been no booklet published by the Salem Commercial club since 1915 and those writing for information receive nothing except the booklet telling of what was going on around Salem four or five years ago.

Telephone rates are now to be considered by the public service commission, not only as to the legality of the rates, but as to their present reasonableness. On its own initiative, the commission has set August 27 as the date for a hearing. This hearing will be held at the court house in Portland. According to notices recently sent out by the commission, all who are interested may appear and be heard.

The police station is on the mailing list of all other police stations and when there is an auto stolen or any body especially wanted, the police here receive printed notice. Since the first of the year, there has been reported 240 automobiles stolen in California, and the police asked to watch out. During the same time, 65 autos have been reported to the police as stolen in Oregon. The state of Washington reports 184 stolen from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1, while the city of Indianapolis alone holds the record with a stolen list of 134. Arizona reports 5 stolen and from Nevada, there comes the report of only one that is missing.

Groceries and shoes and drygoods are not the only things that are advancing in price. Hardware houses are receiving letters from their wholesale connections giving the information that this fall there will be a great shortage in tools for mechanics. The factories cannot supply the demand, which is foreign as well as domestic. Paints and varnishes will advance 25 per cent within a month or so. Linseed oil is scarce and the price is radically upward due to a shortage in the flax crop. Turpentine is higher and going higher and the same is true of varnish. All prices on glassware have been withdrawn by the leading wholesale houses and the buyer now buys wholesale on the market on date of invoice.

We buy liberty bonds. 314 Masonic building.

Everybody's dancing at Brooks tonight.

The Rev. Alfred Bates and wife will return Sunday from Willamette, where they have been spending the past three weeks, to attend the rural conference at Willamette university.
