The road running east of the asylum generally known as the Fruitland road will not be paved, Judge Bushey said this morning, as this road was not in the system laid out when the $850,000 county market road bonds were voted on. There has been an impression that this Fruitland road was included in the coming five year program of county paving, but according to the system as laid out and voted on, no mention was made of this road. Other arrangements may finally be made but the money cannot legally come from the sale of the $850,000 county bonds.

Paul Spionakowski living near Mt. Angel was the purchaser of a 20 acre tract in township 7 south of range 2 east, sold by Jon. J. Koher, executor of the estate of Fritz Weber. The consideration was $1205. The county court approved the sale.

It is thought that any one who would steal a car early in the afternoon from the state house must be a regulation crook or some one most anxious to leave town in a hurry. 1f

William J. Culver, county road master, says that work is progressing rapidly on the road building by the county on the Salem-Turner road, leading out of Salem on State street. On Monday 47 loads of mixed materials were used, on Tuesday 40 loads, which Mr. Culver regards as going some. On these two days one eighth of a mile of base pavement was laid, which the county roadmaster also regards as traveling pretty fast. This road will be worked on as long as favorable weather continues and Mr. Culver hopes to put down two or three miles this fall. 1f

And how well BUCKHECHT Shoes fit this standard! Despite the growing scarcity of good leather—despite the steadily mounting cost of labor and manufacture—we have adhered to our policy of putting into every BUCKHECHT Shoe only top-grade materials and top-notch workmanship. The net result is that, in spite of rising costs, you can still get comfort and wear and service in a shoe at a reasonable price.

Small wonder, then, that men who know how to measure true value have found that their shoe-dollars go further in BUCKHECHT Shoes.
