South Commercial street and Trade is now one of the busy places in the city, showing to some extent the new business activity of the city. The big elevator building is on its travels west and now that the site is cleared, workmen are quickly preparing the foundations for the big paper mill which will extend from just a few feet west of the former water company's office, back to the Oregon Electric switch on Front street. The 30 foot cement retaining wall along Mill creek is now about completed and from now on, the work of erecting the mill will go rapidly forward. All machinery has been ordered. According to the agreement with the council the paper will be in operation by November of 1920. However, Joseph Kastner, superintendent of the mill, says that everything will be ready for operation by next May.

L. J. Simeral of sub-local No. 125, electrical workers, J. H. Arnold of district No. 2 local No. 30 Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen and Fred C. Sefton, of the Capital Typographical union were elected last evening as members of the voluntary mediation board to cooperate with three members elected by the employers. It is the understanding that this board of six members will act on any labor matters that may arise in the city. Last week the employers elected F. G. Deekbach, W. G. Allen and Paul Wallace. It is probable that a meeting will be called this week in order that the voluntary mediation board may organize and get down to business.

Although the new course of study for high schools provides that Spanish and French may be taught, Superintendent

John W. Todd said today that these languages would not be included in the course of study in the high school the coming school year. However, if there is a demand for the teaching of either or both of these languages, later on they will be taught. As the German language is "one for good in the public schools, the only two that will be taught this fall will be English and Latin.

The Royal typewriter has stood the test and made good. It stands for the highest point of efficiency, give it a trial, compare the work and you will choose a machine that has been endorsed by some of the largest business organizations in the country today. Drop us a card for a demonstration.—Graham & Wells, agents, Corvallis, Or.
