Prune interests state that within two weeks all drivers in the county will be doing business. In the southern part of the state around Myrtle Point, the work of drying prunes has already begun. The Drager plant in Salem is now taken up with the evaporating of loganberries, but it is expected that these will be out of the way for the prune season. The prune market is quiet and buyers in the east are not just at present placing orders. The impression is that they are just waiting to see what is going to happen in the campaign for lower food costs.

The Astoria Commercial club invites members of the Salem Commercial club to attend the big celebration there September 6, in the following telegram: "Astoria greets the Cherry City and invites her cousins to attend great celebration September 6 to 12 honoring Secretary Danie's and officers and men of new Pacific fleet. Elaborate program. Big ships, big time."

The long summer drought was broken last evening with a rainfall of .35 of an inch up to 8 o'clock this morning and attempts at showers today. There hasn't been a real genuine rain since May 27 when the precipitation was only one quarter of an inch. The heaviest rainfall in June was only .05 of an inch and in July the only rain that counted was .04 of an inch. The last time when there was a genuine Willamette valley rain was on April 16 with .55 of an inch, the next day with .45 of an inch and the following day with .18 of an inch.

If a soldier has been wounded, but upon his discharge reported in good physical condition, he is given no physical disability. But if he later suffers from the effect of this original wound, he is entitled to a disability compensation. This ruling is according to instructions received at the home service section of the Red Cross with offices in the post office. The only point to be considered is whether the original cause of the soldier's disability dates back prior to receiving his discharge. Soldiers are also notified that the rates for compensation have been increasing, and that if a disability develops, even if discharged in good condition, there is also the opportunity for vocational training.

Dr. Roy D. Byrd has filed his discharge papers for record in the office of the county recorder. At the time of his discharge at Camp Dix, April 12, 1919, he held the rank of captain in the medical corps, 316 sanitary train, 91st division. Notations on his discharge show that his battle engagements include that of St. Mihiel, the Meuse-Argonne offensive and in Belgium along the Scheldt.

Objecting to certain expenditures of the state board of fish and game commissioners, in buying land in Lane county, H. A. Holmes a short time ago brought suit against the commission. The commission demurred, on the ground that the complaint did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. Judge Bingham overruled the demurrer yesterday, and now the commission will be obliged to file an answer to the complaint.

To attend the U. S. bank pig club meeting held last Saturday afternoon at the Commercial club, two little pig club members, Georgia Sneed and Dorothy Sneed, were six miles from their home on rural route 6.

During the month of August, the Home service section of the Red Cross, with offices in the post office building, wrote 389 letters on matters relating to the welfare of returned soldiers. The service came into contact and helped in various ways 73 soldiers who had never before complained to headquarters. In addition to helping families with whom it had been working in previous months, during August the service came into contact and helped 166 families. For relief work, and for aid that was deemed most urgent, the home service section spent during August the sum of $296.55. This work is not only giving immediate relief, sometimes financial to the soldiers themselves, but in adding them to secure employment. Also in securing back pay and adjusting other matters to aid the returned soldier.

Money will be returned to those who ordered surplus army food supplies at the Salem post office in lots of less than one case. There was much confusion at first, and no positive orders from Washington as to whether a post office could take orders in less than case lots. There was positive orders that only case lots would be shipping, but nothing as to whether small orders could be taken and the whole made up into case shipments. Now the order has been received that a post office shall accept only case lot orders. Hence those who bought an assortment of various kinds, but not enough of each to make a case, will be returning their money. The only exception is bacon, and as bacon is packed in small containers, all orders will be forwarded, eventually.

Amelia Stockton, administratrix of the estate of J. L. Stockton, has petitioned the county court for permission to use a certain sum of money for the erection of a suitable monument over the grave of Mr. Stockton. She recites in her petition that it is the desire of herself and other heirs to expend the sum of $1336.43 in procuring a suitable monument, caring for the cemetery lot and to place with some bank part of the amount from which is to be derived an annual fund for the maintenance of the monument and lot. The county court granted the order as asked for in the petition.

The fall semester of Willamette university will begin September 15 and as usual there will be a number of young men who will be glad to get work mornings and evenings on Saturdays. Earl Race, city recorder, says he will aid with the municipal labor bureau in every way in securing employment for those young folks and suggests that those who may have work that can be done by a student, should telephone him at the city hall.

DIED

JORY—At the home of her sister in Marshfield, Mrs. Emma M. Jory, September 3, 1919, at the age of 85 years.

Besides her husband, Oliver Jory of Salem, she is survived by one son, Lewis Jory.

Mrs. Jory had been suffering for some time from heart troubles and has been visiting in Marshfield with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Edwards. She passed the greater part of her life on Coos river and was the daughter of Jonathan Hodson, a Coos county pioneer.

As yet no funeral arrangements have been announced.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church will be held in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. George H. Lee of Newberg will be present and will tell of her daughter's work in India. Miss Lee is now a missionary in that country and as Mrs. Lee was formerly a Salem resident there are a number of persons who will be interested in hearing of her daughter's labors. All the women of the parish are urged to attend the meeting and the social hour which will follow.

Lieutenant Allan G. Carson arrived home last evening after two years of service in France and with the American army of occupation. For a time he served as instructor with the 28th infantry. After receiving his commission he was assigned to the Rainbow division and took part in some of the heavy fighting just before the signing of the armistice. He is the son of Mrs. John A. Carson. Having graduated from the Salem high school, he was attending Willamette university when he volunteered for service in 1917.

Word was received today of the death of Miss Belle Grover, dean of women, McMinnville college, at Seattle where she was attending a special course at the University of Washington. She was taken suddenly ill about two weeks ago. The funeral services were held today at McMinnville.
