THE SUPERMAN MYTH.

That the old order in Germany still persists despite the disasters of the war, the abolition of the monarchy and the rule of the new republic, is shown by the organization of a new order designed to perpetuate the spirit of pan-Germanism, whose advertisement for members as printed in nationalistic papers reads:

"German men and women of blonde Germanic race and aristocratic principles, who seriously want to join a pure Germanic order, are asked to send in confidence their photograph and 'blood testimonial.' More firmly than ever before must all still prebenedicted Germans join together, more urgently than ever sounds the rallying cry. Curiosity seekers, democrats, materialists and citizens of the world keep away."

Here we have an effort to revive and perpetuate the "superman" fallacies which were the inspiration of German aggression and attempt to conquer the globe. Systematically the German people had been educated and hypnotized into believing themselves the chosen people, destined to enslave mankind and rule a world populated by "inferior peoples."

No stranger delusion ever possessed a nation than the crude and impossible theories of the glorified "blonde beast." Beast he was, but seldom blonde. As a matter of historical fact, there is but little of the original blonde Teutonic stock left in Germany, the immigrations of centuries, the influx of other races, the intermixture of conquerors and conquered having produced a mixed people, varying in racial characteristics in various parts of the empire, from the light skinned Honovarian to the dark complexioned Bavarian.

The original Teutons, the German barbarians of the Romans, a tall, blonde, blue-eyed, long skulled people, spread south and west over Europe from the forests and shores of the North and Baltic seas in the first centuries of the Christian era, and invasions continued for a thousand years, as the invaders were in turn pressed onward by invading Slavs, a broad skulled race, and Mongol tribes from the south and east.

Germany of today is a composite of all these invading races blended with the aboriginal inhabitants--the long-headed, dark complexioned Mediterranean type, the broad-headed, medium complexioned Alpine type. The Teuton has lost his distinctive racial characteristics as invader and invaded merged into one people.

In no part of Germany was the "superman" myth so prevalent as in Prussia--yet no part of Germany is less Teutonic than old Prussia. The Prussian is a mixture of Romanized Teuton, Slav and Mongol. The type is found today in its racial purity only in Scandinavia. Great Britain is racially more Teutonic than Germany, and northern France just as Teutonic.

It was supposed that the German "superman" myth perished with the collapse of the German empire, when the so-called inferior peoples conclusively proved its fallacy--but error dies hard in bone heads.

HUNTING A HUSBAND

By Mary Douglas

A MIDNIGHT RIDE

Bennie left me at the Randolph House It was 8 o'clock already. Yet I was not worried. For Bennie, though 19, is the kind of boy that rises to an emergency.

In a little while he joined me. Hard luck, Sara. It'll take him three hours, anyway, to fix up that radiator. "Let a telephone Cousin Medicine. And spend the night here. Bennie shook his head. "Can't do it, Sara."

"Why not?" I asked. "It'll take two hours, anyway to get. We won't reach Longue View before one."

Bennie looked at me queerly. "Don't you know that gang yet?" he said. "Mrs. Ashby, Margot, Winthrop Carter--why they would eat up the scandal."

"Do you mean to say, Bennie--" "Yes, I do mean to say, Sara Lane, though you think yourself so old, and all the rest of it. We've got to get back to-night, if we want to save our skins."

I said no more. We had our dinner in the nearly deserted little inn. We strolled through the funny seaside town. Looked into the windows of the quaint little shops. Bennie insisted on buying me early in a little fly-specked argyle sock. Though it proved to be quite stale. Somehow we had a very jolly time wandering through Longue View.

Bennie is the most amusing and winning of companions, when he chooses to be. In fact he showed me quite a raw side of himself. A Bennie, simple and boyish; yet manly and protective. I was charmed. I wondered why this rule did not appear at Longue View.

We hated to tear ourselves away, when the garage man came to tell us the car was fixed up. It was 11 o'clock. "I shall remember this place, Sara," said Bennie warmly. "You don't know what a jolly person you are to be with!"

"You're not so bad yourself, Bennie."

We were on our way again. In a little world of our own. So it seemed as the blackness flew past. There was no break in the thick darkness. Sometimes we heard the roar of the waters. And again a strong whiff of salt air smote us.

It was nice to settle back in the comfort of the car. Warm and silent. For all desire to talk had left me.

But this time Bennie was the loquacious one. And he talked--strangely enough--about me. I answered in monosyllables, or not at all.

"Do you know, Sara, you are a wonderful person. No, don't say that. But a fellow feels there is so much to you--back of you. You're not always thinking of yourself. The little things you've done, down here. Made that baby Anne happy. And as for me--I say, I'm not much good at saying things. But you're so darned sympathetic. That's what a man wants. Not just a girl who sits around and looks pretty. But someone who understands--"

"Bennie, you mustn't," I said. "I'll believe it all if you keep on."

We had swung into our own gates. Bennie took out his watch. They whistled. "By Jove, ten after one." Bennie left me at the door. In the dim light I saw a man's figure. But these words came clearly. "Daring, I adore you!"

Then the lights flashed on. (Tomorrow--A Contretemps.)

Highway Commission Tells Best Routes for Autoists Motoring to State Fair

In anticipation of a heavy automobile traffic from all sections of the state to Salem during the state fair next week, and in view of the great amount of construction work in progress on state highways, the state highway commission today issued a statement on the condition of roads between Portland and Salem south, with suggestions as to the best routes to be followed by automobiles in this territory. The statement follows:

"The Pacific highway between Portland and Salem is under construction between Aurora and Salem. It is not necessary to make any detours between Portland and Hubbard; between Hubbard and Woodburn is a detour over dirt road or about five miles which is practically impassable during wet weather and is very rough in dry weather. Between Woodburn and Gervais the road is paved and open for traffic. Between Gervais and Brooks is a detour which is over earth road a part of the way and is impassable during wet weather, and is very rough in dry weather. The road is open between Brooks and Salem."

"The West Side highway is under construction between Newberg and Dayton; also between West Dayton and McMinnville. The detours around this work are over earth roads and are steep and narrow and very bad in wet weather."

"Traffic between Portland and Salem should take the West Side road to Newberg by way of Terwilliger Boulevard, and the Box-Tiger road. Cross the Willamette bridge at Newberg, through St. Paul to Salem. Temporary route signs have been placed on this route between Newberg and Salem."

"The best route between Newberg and McMinnville is by way of Carlton, thence on the road on the west side of the North Yamhill river to McMinnville. This route has been marked with temporary road signs."

"The best route between McMinnville and Sheridan has also been marked with temporary road signs."

"The road between Salem and Bellas is under construction and is almost impassable in wet weather."

"The Pacific highway between Salem and Albany is under construction, and is almost impassable in wet weather."

"The best route from Salem south is by way of Livesley, East Independence and Independence to Albany. Corvallis and points south. This is a fairly good gravelled road the entire distance but it is necessary to ferry across the river at Independence. The ferry operates from 6:30 a. m. to 2 a. m. The charge for a machine is 25c until midnight and double rate between midnight and 2 a. m."

"Traffic is advised to follow the route through Albany, Tangent, Saeddi, Halsey, Harriaburg and Junction City, as the road through Corvallis, Monroe and Junction City is under construction and it is necessary to make short detours."

"The balance of the Pacific highway will be found under construction at various points and short detours will be necessary in some cases which the traveler will find well marked."

ROUND COAST LEAGUE BASES

(By United Press.) Yesterday's winners--Salt Lake, Oakland, San Francisco, Home run--Rumler, Salt Lake; Muesel, Los Angeles; Hunter, San Francisco.

The Tigers and Angels are still locked in deadly combat on the top rung of the percentage ladder. Both lost yesterday.

In a wild game featured by wild pitching by five wild hurlers, the Bees beat the Tigers 10 to 9. It was a seaway throughout.

The Yips slump after eight straight wins was a hard one. The lowly Oaks drubbed them 10 to 3 through Oak hits and Yip boots.

Four pitchers were knocked out of the box in the slugfest at Los Angeles, which went to the Seals 11 to 10, in a ninth inning rally that scored four runs. Five doubles, two triples and a homer were among the swats.

BORAH SAYS MIDDLE WEST OPPOSES PACT

Claims Americanism Fills Friends Of League With Apprehension.

By L. C. Martin (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 17.--The middle west is aflame with opposition to the league of nations covenant in its present form, Senator Borah, Idaho, declared today on his return to Washington from a speaking trip.

"The demonstration of Americanism which the middle west is giving," said Borah, "is filling the advocates of an unqualified ratification of the treaty with fear and foreboding. That is why they are attempting to rush the treaty through the senate. They are afraid of the tide that is sweeping the country."

Borah is relied on by Lodge and other republican leaders to take the offensive in the fight on amendment. The Idaho senator, who wants to kill the whole league covenant, said mid-western audiences had given vociferous approval of his attitude.

"In Omaha," he said, "the crowd stood and cheered for a full minute to the declaration that the whole treaty-avenue scheme should be abandoned. In Iowa the sentiment was so strongly anti-league as it was in Nebraska."

COCONUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO

Most soaps and unperfumed shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely preservative) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing.

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One of two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get multified coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooling water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment easily heal eczema and similar skin eruptions. Sold by all druggists.
