With the activity in farms and city real estate comes more work for the office of the county recorder. Yesterday there was recorded six affidavits, 17 deeds, four satisfactions, seven mortgages and two army discharges.

The attorneys for the Salem hospital have filed notice with the county clerk directing him to place the demurrer filed by the Children's Aid society on the motion docket in order that the case may be heard this coming term of the circuit court.

Hazley O. White says the horse has about gone out of business, especially in Polk county when it comes to plowing. While out on a business trip in this section of the valley yesterday, he noted that the tractor was doing all the pulling of plows and during his day's ride, saw but two farms where the horse was the motive power. Soil conditions are fine, he says, as the late rains soaked into the ground from six to eight inches. Seed wheat is now selling at about $4 per hundred pounds and the same price holds good for oats. This is the price that prevailed this time last year.

B. J. Miles has brought suit against Edgar A. Skewis for the foreclosure of a $175 mortgage on a small tract in north Salem adjoining the Oregon Electric. The note and mortgage was originally made by E. K. Spyker and the property sold to Skewis. Besides the $175 due, he asks for $75 attorney's fees.

S. C. Scott of the Salem Studio has returned from Los Angeles where he was called by the sudden death of his daughter.

Arrangements will soon be made to close the estate of Benjamin F. Davenport of Silverton who died a few years ago. In his will dated May 31, 1912, made when he was 73 years old, he bequeathed $1 to each of his children and the remainder of his estate, of every kind to his wife, Lucretia Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. William Richter of 525 North 29th street have just returned from attending the wedding of Miss Eleanor Richter and James Aber of Vashon Island, near Seattle. Miss Richter is a graduate nurse of Salem hospital and for the past 14 years has practiced in Portland. Mr. Aber is one of the principals of the Seattle schools. The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Fred Shanahan, a sister of Miss Richter. The mother of the bride is one of Oregon's pioneers, crossing the plains in 1852 and for a number of years living in Salem. The three Richter brothers and two sisters all met at the wedding, the first time in 20 years.

Tomorrow afternoon the young ladies of the university Y. W. C. A. will hold their annual picnic reception for the new comers in the institution. The party will drive out to the Chestnut Farm where a fine luncheon will be spread and a general good time enjoyed while the new students are being made acquainted. In the evening there will be a stormy, hilarious time among the boys at the annual 'Stag Mix' which will be staged in the Philodorian and Websterian halls under the auspices of the university Y. M. C. A.

G. W. Hillman, who enlisted in the navy from this city in 1917, stopped in town today for a brief visit, having just received his discharge. For 8 months he was with a mine layer at work in the North sea where they were in constant danger of submarines, but his vessel suffered only one attack. Afterward the vessel was turned into a transport and made several trips across the Atlantic.

Robert Ruhl, who recently purchased the Mail-Tribune of Medford, is in the city today. He is a brother of the famous war correspondent Arthur Ruhl.
