

GRID PROSPECT AT WILLAMETTE IS PROMISING

Efforts will be made this fall to place football at Willamette university just where it was in 1915 when the university team won the non-conference league of the northwest and where it was again in 1916 when the team won for the second time the championship of the non-conference league of the northwest, (Jack Mathews said today.)

Mr. Mathews has just returned from spending a summer in government construction work out of Victoria, B. C., and construction work in Washington. While he has not as yet looked thoroughly over the prospects, he says there are enough former football players on deck this year to justify the prediction that Willamette will once again take its place in the football of the northwest.

For the past week, preliminary practice has been under way under the direction of Captain Dimick. He has been trying out about 45 of the would be players. With the number of old players on hand Mr. Mathews feels confident that when the final 15 are picked, Willamette will have a football team worthy of its past record.

Mr. Mathews was first engaged as coach for the university in the fall of 1915. Within a few months he had whipped the team into such fighting shape that it won the championship of the non-conference league of the northwest and did it all over again in 1916. In 1917 only two games were played. In 1918 the S. A. T. C. of the university took the place of all athletic activities.

He says athletics will go big this fall and for his football team he has already lined up the following old timers: Dimick, Wapato, Rarery, Socolofsky, Medler, Brown, Irvine, Bassler and Grosvenor.

TREATY WOULD HAVE STOPPED STEEL STRIKE

By Hugh Bailie
(United Press staff correspondent)

Aboard the President's Train en route to Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 24.—Ratification of the peace treaty with its labor provisions will enable men to forget war and begin working toward industrial democracy which will prevent labor clashes like the present steel strike, President Wilson believes today.

This can be given as his attitude, not toward the steel strike in particular, but toward labor difficulties in general, with regard to which he is preserving an attitude of absolute silence. Although there was no hint from official circles, it may be stated that Wilson, having once already attempted to avert that strike, is disposed to wait until both sides are ready to ask his aid. Then it is probable he will propose an armistice until the industrial conference meets in Washington October 6.

Wilson is firm in the belief that the "cooling off" process provided in the league of nations covenant for international differences can with good results be applied also to industrial disputes and that if the representatives of both sides will get together and talk it over, a settlement will result.

Should labor ask his intervention in the steel strike, Wilson's probable course would be to intimate to the employers that he is ready to act if they also request it. There is a feeling that the president did not like the manner in which his first offer was spurned.

There is no doubt that Wilson regards the steel strike as of the utmost seriousness. He has repeatedly warned that labor unrest is spreading as a result of delay in bringing about a final peace and that this unrest is coming from Europe.

A Personal Letter To You:

This is our second visit to Oregon's State Fair in the Capital City. The weather is ideal and will continue so every day this week. The new Stadium, new buildings, new cement walks, new and greater arrangements of exhibits, new attractions and amusements calls forth the greatest appreciation to be privileged to visit such a wonderful fair. On every side one can hear: "We hope the present management will continue year after year, their excellent work." From the smallest "Kewpie stand" to the largest attraction, each vendor of his or her wares will constantly seek your attention—that's the word ATTENTION! From shouts, placards, to personal approach will each endeavor to convince you that his or her goods are the very best. This is right, absolutely right from their viewpoint and will become right from your viewpoint if your INTEREST is awakened through your attention to create the same judgment.

Perhaps in a day or so your INTEREST will prompt you to NEED the article and your judgment will BUY their "Goods." So it is all through life. From attention to interest; from interest to needs and from needs to purchase. Your needs awaken a DESIRE and I claim that every sincere desire backed by the best motive that causes every earnest effort to be put forth, can, as one conditions environment, be realized.

Not only have I New Professions that I wish to call your attention to but I have a life—I am living a life with my wife and two children—to Exhibit. May I call your attention, first, to the following new professions:

A Psycho-Analyst

(1) A PSYCHO-ANALYST—one who is skilled in the art of purging your mind of pathogenic ideas (fears, worries, sorrows, etc.) caused by psychic trauma, hereditary influences, internal sub—or abnormal growth or functioning, and detrimental environment. You personally would be surprised if you knew how many "repressed ideas"—ideas of fright, disappointment, grief, anger, etc.—are now actually causing nervousness, mental and physical disturbances in your Being. You know of course, that your Brain and nervous systems are like not only a "dispatcher" but a "receiving board" similar to the workings in a telephone operating room. Yes—your mental "wires" become "crossed" and "very cross," too. This causes catabolic (low resistance and disintegrating) conditions, which according to the intensity and prolongation of "crossed, very cross, or, even sorrowful activities," creates non-functional, mental and psychological disease. This notice Will Create sufficient Desire in You, if you have a relative or a friend, to cause the NEED of an examination, the manner and thoroughness of which no other in your state is able to give, which is my GOODS I am Now calling your ATTENTION to PURCHASE.

A Vocationaltherapist

(2) One who understands the science of directing the best or highest Natural adaption in Vocational Expression. It is the "knowing how" to select the right position for the greatest bodily and mental development of the employee. You well know that 95 per cent of the people, in any country, are Vocational Misfits. The Natural results therefrom are sickness, accidents, discontentment, unhappy homes, poor-workmanship, and simply an existence on Earth. To Know and Work in your Natural Vocation will obtain for you greater health, success and happiness. I could tell you of many hundred people who years ago were slaving as misfits in life, but, who now are enjoying the blessings of a contented mind, greater success and happiness. Why try to hitch a Hamiltonian horse to a plow or attempt to train a Dray horse for the race track. Fit minds to fit places should be the rule rather than the exception in your Home. There are physical bodies with superior mental tendencies that fit certain types of people. I have classified these types as: Agrarian, Domestic, Mechanical, Tradesman, Business,
