

SCHALK BEHIND BAT GIVES SOX EDGE OVER REDS

By Henry L. Farrell
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 26.—What the old adage says about the "hand that rocks the cradle," baseball sages say of the hands that receive the pitcher's slants. It is admitted that in handling the pitching, combatting the base work of the opposition and directing the field play of the team, the catcher has one of the most important posts of the defense.

In this department the White Sox are stronger than the Reds. Ray Schalk is one of the greatest catchers of the game. He is a hard worker, a fine general and judge of plays and his work in steady pitching and fields makes him a more dependable player than any of the Red receivers.

Schalk caught the entire world series of 1917, batted .263, fielded .949 and held the Giants to four stolen bases in the six games. He has worked in 127 games this season and has batted .274, the best mark he has made in the last three years.

Ivy Wingo and Bill Bariden have alternated through the season for Moran. Wingo is but one point behind Schalk in batting but he is the inferior by a wider margin in base running and general work.

On account of previous experience in the big series, Bariden may get the call from Moran. He caught five games of the 1917 series after McCarty had been hurt. He batted .285, fielded 1.000 and held the White Sox to six stolen bases. But his generalship was below par. New York fans to this day have not forgiven him for leaving the plate unguarded in the sixth game when Heinie Zimmerman pulled his historic feat of chasing Eddie Collins across the pan. His stick work this season has been around .212.

Schalk has worked so much this season that Byrd Lynn, the second string catcher, hasn't had much of a chance to show himself. He has worked in only 24 games this year and has a batting average of .220.

CORSETS FOR COPS IS NEW PORTLAND IDEA

Portland, Or., Sept. 26.—(United Press.)—Now come the reformers with the suggestion that policemen wear corsets while patrolling their beats.

"So many of our policemen are large and heavy set" say the aesthetes, "and they look coarse and gross. We want handsome, fine appearing young men for policemen. They should be forced to wear corsets so that their bodies would have more graceful lines."

"A fine idea," snorts Policeman O'Halloran, "a grand thing for the undertakers. Just imagine me going to a club meeting with me corset on. Just watch John Keegan going down into the wilds of the lower Albina district with his powder puff and lip stick. 'Twould be murder."

No, the coppers don't take kindly to the idea. "Corsets cost too much money," avers Captain Inskeep. "I have paid for quite a bunch of them, and I know, because I have been married for quite a while. A lot of these coppers wouldn't buy their own corsets. They would try to steal their wife's. That would cause too much trouble."

Patrolman Nelson scents the idea. "Wouldn't it be a grand thing," he said, "me coming down to work and putting on my uniform and asking some bull to hook up my corset. Mayor Baker would have to hire a maid for the force." Portland club women are working on the scheme which is said to have originated at Dallas, Texas. Their slogan is "Corsets for Coppers and Beautiful Bulls."

MINE WORKERS WAGE DEMANDS PRESENTED

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 26.—(United Press.)—Presentation of wage demands by a special committee of the United Mine Workers of America, was made today at a conference with representatives of coal mine operators.

This conference was expected to determine the question of whether a general strike will be called in the bituminous coal fields of the country. It was reported before the conference opened that the operators are prepared to meet the demands of the miners for a sixty per cent increase with an offer of a 25 per cent increase and a 44 hour week as against the 30 hour week proposed by miners. Representatives of the miners claimed the men have been working only about three days a week and the mine owners have been keeping down production of coal since the armistice was signed, to keep up prices.
