INSTRUCTIONS FOR PHYSICAL TRAINING IN SCHOOLS MAILED

Physical culture is now compulsory in all public schools here and in order that the average teacher may be fully posted on just what is required, a pamphlet entitled "A Course in Physical Instruction for the Schools of Oregon" has been prepared by the state superintendent. This course of study was being mailed Wednesday by W. M. Smith, county superintendent, to all teachers in the county. Twenty minutes a day is required to be spent in this physical culture work.

exclusive of recess periods. The law requires that when the number attending school is sufficient, the school board must employ a special teacher. Otherwise, the school teacher is required to teach physical culture. The law, as passed by the 1919 legislature reads: "After the first day of September, 1919, all male and female pupils in all elementary and secondary schools shall receive as part of the prescribed course of instruction, such physical training as determined by the state superintendent of public instruction during periods which shall average at least 20 minutes in each school day, exclusive of recess periods." All teachers in the county were also sent monthly report blanks, school calendars and the word list for the second grades. Three-fourths of the schools in the county will be in session by next Monday, October 6, it was said.

Three Real Princesses From the U. S. A. Quit Kingdoms to Join Army Democracy

Entertained right royally are the men of the A. E. F. The royalty of two continents is sending its princesses to amuse them. Only recently the Princess Maria of Rumania visited the leave area at Aliz-Bains with her mother, the Queen, and danced in a tag dance with American privates. And the Y. M. C. A. has sent three native American princesses to Europe to dance and sing, princesses that belong to the ancient royalty that held sway over vast areas of this continent before Columbus set foot on American soil. The Princess Bluefeather traces her descent, on the distaff side to Montezuma, emperor of the Aztecs. Her mother was of purest Aztec blood, she insists, and her father was a Frenchman by the name of Des Champs. The princess spent her childhood with a tribe of Indians in Oregon and learned from them many Indian songs, legends, tribal dances and incantations with which she is now entertaining nightly the crowds of doughboys who flock to see her. The Princess Tsianina is another Indian princess who won fame as a singer in the opera companies of Charles Wakefield Cadman on the Pacific Coast. She was adopted in childhood by a wealthy white family in Denver and given a good education. The dying request of her Indian mother that she should always wear the native Indian dress, has been observed and, regardless of the stares of the crowds, the princess has walked unconcerned through the cities of the old world as she used to walk through those of the new, in her beaded leather robes. She reached Germany and for months entertained the soldiers there with native songs and dances, appearing alone and in concert with Mr. Cadman. Princess Tsianina is a composer of ability. She has made a close study of Indian customs and folk-lore and her programs were always well received by the soldiers. She went abroad last September. The third of the royal trio is the Princess Galliohi, who also is known under the English name of Anna Ross. Her father was Robert Ross, hereditary king of the Cherokee of Oklahoma, and she comes from Talequah, the former capital of the Cherokee nation in the Ozark foothills. For two years before going abroad she appeared with Ernest Thompson-Seton, the naturalist, giving recitals of folk-lore and songs and dances of the various Indian tribes. She was the model for the Zolnay statue of Squooya, one of her own ancestors and the inventor of the Cherokee alphabet, which stands in the Hall of Fame at Washington, and she officiated at the unveiling of the statue last year. Her Indian name signifies "One-who-does-things-well," and her success in serving the boys abroad has satisfied them that the name is one she well merits.

CATARRH IS NOT INCURABLE

BUT YOU CAN'T RELY ON SPRAYS AND INHALERS. There is no use permitting yourself to be deceived. Perhaps, like thousands of others afflicted with catarrh, you are about ready to believe that the disease is incurable, and that you are doomed to spend the remainder of your days hawking and spitting, with no relief in sight from inflamed and stopped up air passages that make the days miserable and the nights sleepless. Of course, this all depends upon whether or not you are willing to continue the old-time, make-shift methods of treatment that you and many other sufferers have used for years with no substantial results. If you are still content to depend upon the use of sprays, douches, inhalers, jellies and other like remedies by themselves, that are applied to the surface and cannot reach below it, then make up your mind now that your catarrh will remain a life companion and will follow you to the grave. You must realize that the disease itself, and not its symptoms, is what you have to cure. Of course you know that when you are cured of any disease its symptoms will disappear. Catarrh man-

Marshfield is in the midst of the greatest construction program it has ever experienced. The portions of the city burned in February have been almost entirely rebuilt with modern edifices.

INCREASED TOLL ON DECK CARGOES TO BE CHARGED
