

RESERVATIONS ARE TO INCLUDE ALL OBJECTIONS

By L. C. Martin
(United Press staff correspondent)
Washington, Oct. 4.—The program of senate reservationists is to be broadened to include practically all matters covered by amendments that have been or will be proposed to the peace treaty, it was evident today.

Not only does the proposed reservation program contemplate relieving the United States of any obligation to send troops abroad under article X to preserve the territory and political independence of foreign nations against external aggression, but it is to include prohibition against the use of American troops abroad for any purpose without the specific consent of congress.

This is to cover such cases as the sending of troops to Upper Silesia to help keep order proceeding and during the plebiscite which is to decide whether the territory is to be under German or Polish sovereignty.

The new program is also to provide, senators said, that the United States shall not be represented on European boundary commissions or other bodies set up to carry out treaty provisions, if for any reason congress thinks this country should not be represented, and is to provide for American withdrawal from membership on any such commission at any time congress desires.

A check is to be placed upon the acts of American members of such commissions so their votes will be subjected to "veto" by congress. All such American representatives must be approved by the senate before entering upon their duties, if the broadened reservation plan is accepted.

This program has now for the first time become public, its supporters said. Fall's amendments were overwhelmingly defeated Thursday. But upon the first roll call 30 senators voted for the amendment, with four absent who may have supported it.

Senator Lodge, a republican leader, said the vote "delighted" him and added:

"It showed that we have one vote more than the 33 required to reject the treaty unless it is made safe by the adoption of strong reservations."

Administration leaders took a different view.

"The voting proves," said Hitchcock, "that the big majority of the senate is heartily opposed to the efforts of a belligerent partisan minority to destroy the treaty. All of our forecasts concerning the defeat of amendments by overwhelming majorities were borne out and the voting should leave no doubt in any one's mind that all other amendments will be as decisively rejected. It was a clean cut victory."

The next amendment to be reported will be that on Shantung, which is six amendments in one.

Following that another Fall amendment, that relating to the action of the American member of the reparation commission, will come up. Senate leaders said they believe a vote may be reached on Shantung late next week.

Senators who analyzed Thursday's votes on the Fall proposals found that the vote upon the first amendment of a series of 36 eliminating the United States from membership on the Belgian boundary commission, gave the best indication of how the senate stands.

On that amendment fifty eight voted no, of whom forty one were democrats and 17 republicans, and thirty voted aye, 29 being republicans and one—Gore, Oklahoma, democrat.

Reed, Johnson (California), Page and Sutherland were all paired in favor of the amendment, while four other absentees—Martin, Virginia; Smith, South Carolina; Johnson, South Dakota, and King—were against it. Had they been present the vote probably would have stood 34 for the amendment and 62 against. Few changes occurred on later roll calls.

T. E. Thompson of New Zealand has written the governor's office for information on the resources of Oregon. Thompson interest lies especially along the line of fruit and dairy farming.

Woman Escapes From Hospital Early Friday

May Hayes, committed to the state hospital from Portland as a morphine addict, September 8, made her escape from the institution by crawling through two transoms at 1 o'clock Friday morning. The woman was being detained in a room in the receiving ward of the hospital for treatment. While the night nurse was busy with another patient she crawled through a transom leading from her room into the women's rest room. Here she removed a heavy transom, regarded as a difficult task even for a strong man, and made her way to freedom. She was regarded as perfectly sane except when under the influence of morphine and would have been subject to discharge after being cured of the habit which would probably have required a few months treatment, hospital officials stated. No address of relatives is available but the address of George Schneider, 80 North Seventeenth street, Portland, is given as a friend on her commitment record.

home and it is admired as a fine residence.

A man living in Iowa owned a splendid corner on North Commercial street, subject to a mortgage overdue, interest for five years, taxes and so forth for the same length of time. On the property was a large building of sixteen rooms, in a very dilapidated condition. Its owner had no revenue from the property, but now, through my (membership) efforts, five families reside in the property. This was not possible, however, until over $1500 had been spent thereon. The property is now a credit to the city of Salem, while before the improvements were made it was a disgrace to our beautiful city."

ing many of these, but the president is too ill to see them.

The newspaper reporters room at the White House gave some indication of the situation. It was crowded.

Word has been received at the White House that the king and queen of Belgium, now in New York, will make a very quiet tour of the United States, due to the illness of the president. After visiting Boston and Buffalo, these advisers said, they will go to a quiet place in California until October 14, when they will visit San Francisco. It is hoped that Wilson's health will be so improved by that date that the king and queen can fulfill their engagements en route east.
