Rippling Rhymes. By Walt Mason. INDISPENSIBLE

I once was clerking in a shop, dispensing lemonade and pop, and doudads of the kind; and as I worked I used to think the store would surely be on the blink if I happily resigned. I thought if I should jump the store the patrons would go there no more, but follow where I went; they'd ask the boss, "Where is the lad whose whims of manner made us glad? Where is that joyous gent?" One day when I was dreaming this, the boss came up, the Jimmy came, and said, "Young man, you're fired; too long this useful job you've held; the way your fat young head is swelled would make an image tired." Oh, I was thunderstruck and dazed, and flabbergasted and amazed, but when I got my breath, I said, "I do not care three whoops; that store will straightway loop the loops—my going means its death." And every time I passed along I hoped to see things going wrong, no customers on hand; also, the custom did not stop, but people galloped to that shop, and brought to boot run band. Since that adventure came to pass I feel I do not eat much grass, or ice or wood or hay; and I am humble as I tell; I strive to make the kettle boil without a grandstand play.

Captured German U-Boat Now Visiting Portland

Portland, Or., Oct. 6.—Portland citizens are not losing any sleep nights, despite the fact that there is a submarine in the local harbor, for it is a reformer of U-boats—ones looking for naval recruits.

The vessel is the U-85, a former pride of the German navy. The submarine was accompanied here by the Bittern, a mine sweeper. These boats are open to inspection by the public, in the interest of recruiting.

The U-85 surrendered to the English at Harwich November 28, 1918. Up to that time she had sunk 11 allied vessels. The British turned her over to the American navy, since which time the submarine has cruised 12,000 miles.

Silverton Girl Dies Soon After Operation Performed

Closely following an operation for appendicitis, Miss Bessie Miller, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Millie Warner, died early Saturday morning at the Silverton Sanitarium. Dr. Fisher of Salem performed the operation Friday forenoon. The funeral was held in the chapel Sunday afternoon and interment was made in the Silverton cemetery.

Miss Miller was born near this city and had spent practically all of her life in Silverton and vicinity.—Tribune.

PORTLAND TO THE RESCUE.

IN a few days a special train of Portland jobbers and merchants will leave on an exploration and exploitation trip to southern Oregon. Visits will be made in the various towns and leading citizens and business men will be luncheoned and dined, with the purpose of grabbing a ore business for the metropolis.

For many of the tourists the journey will be one of discovery, for though they know the district to be invaded is a part of Oregon, because it is so marked on the map, they have never seen it or had interest enough to visit it, and their newly found interest is due to the fact that California is annexing the region commercially.

For years cities of southern Oregon have appealed in vain to the metropolis for financial aid in the building of railroads and in development projects. They have enjoyed the great privilege of paying taxes to Oregon and been neglected in return. They have given their business to Portland, only to be strangled by unfair railroad rates and monopolistic methods as a reward of merit. Their every move for development has found the metropolis thwarting their efforts—whether it be for fairer jobbing rates or lumber rates or what not.

At the last session of the legislature, Senator Baldwin of Klamath county, introduced a resolution for the cession of that county to California. Were it left to a vote of the people of southern Oregon, Lake, Klamath, Jackson and Josephine counties would vote overwhelmingly for secession. Yet even this has not awakened Portland to a sense of her responsibilities and duties.

For five years the people of the Klamath basin have been appealing to Oregon for aid in constructing a railroad that would make their section really a part of Oregon. They have shown their own faith by putting up their money to construct the first unit of the proposed line. They have received promises galore, columns of praise in the press—but no cash. Not a dollar has Portland subscribed to annex commercially her own territory by constructing the few miles of railroad necessary.

Portland has probably the narrowest vision of any western metropolis. She would confine all the state industries to her limits and do all the jobbing for the state, forgetting that only as the state develops and grows can her own markets and business increase. The money in her banks is for use in Portland only—other sections must finance themselves. The result is that Oregon is the least developed and most backward of coast states and Portland top heavy.

And Portland's answer to the appeal of southern Oregon for financial aid in development projects is a junket of jobbers to glad-hand for business developed by local enterprise and California capital! An answer typical of the enterprise and vision of the metropolis.

DIVORCE INCREASING.

JUDGE W. N. Gatens of Portland declares that the desire of married women for complete economic independence is threatening the home and constitutes a menace to the nation, to religion and to civilization—and he is considered the best informed man in Oregon on the divorce question.

The divorce evil is spreading rapidly, according to Judge Gatens, there being four times as many divorce cases as before the war. In most of the cases, the wife has worked at positions away from home since her marriage and the desire to be independent financially, to wear good clothes, go to shows, escape household duties, outweigh the appeal of fireside, children and home.

The war is held responsible for the increased divorces, the women who took the places of the men called to service, refusing to go back to the wash-tub, kitchen and cradle—the husbands are held at fault also by not sharing their income with their wives, but doling it out a few cents at a time as if it was a gift.

The remedy the jurist suggests is for married women to remain at home and for married men to regard wives as partners instead of dependents.

HUNTING A HUSBAND

THE WAY OUT

Mother and Aunt Emily are delighted at the prospect of my spending the winter with them in South Minister. "Bring your warm clothes," Aunt Emily wrote, "for the winters are very severe here." I looked at my new blue fox fur. Mrs. Ashby had thrown it around my shoulders as I left. "No, no, you must take it, Sara," she said when I demurred. "I want you to think of me now and then. You have meant so much to me." Now that I am home, again, I find I cannot stop thinking of George Arnold. Perhaps it was not my fault—only my ignorance. His standards are not my standards. It is all life, experience. And I shall know more, be more keenly alive to situations. Yet I am glad—so glad to leave all that behind me. And turn my face to the new. And now South Minister!

"Miss Lane," she said at once, "would you help me?" I could not very well refuse her. Though I do not like Jeanne. "I do want to make up with Tom. You are an old friend of his—like an older sister. Couldn't you help me? Tell him some one wants to meet him; and then bring me in?" "You want to make up with Tom? Then why don't you say you were wrong?" "I couldn't do that," said Jeanne. "I have never begged a man's pardon in my life!" The silly pride of this whole attitude angered me. But didn't Tom still love her? Perhaps his love would change all that! "I will do what I can for you, Jeanne," I said. "But not in your way. I'll tell Tom you want to see him. You must do the rest." Jeanne thanked me with a pretty smile. But somehow I cannot feel that Tom should marry her. (Tomorrow—Blessed Peace.)

WHICH? OR EITHER?

Washington, Oct. 3.—Senator Hiram Johnson's reception in the middle west, as he toured in opposition to the league of nations, has set republican tongues wagging anew in house and senate cloakrooms, to the effect that Johnson is going to prove a mighty formidable claimant to the G. O. P. presidential nomination that is to be handed to somebody the coming summer.

Johnson of course, has been regarded all along as having only an "outside chance" because the standpat leaders of the party find his progressivism unacceptable.

But now, the talk goes on, there is reason to believe that Johnson's enthusiastic greeting in the middle west is but one evidence that whether they like him or not, republican leaders will have to give a respectful ear to Johnson's claims.

There is Johnson's popularity among American soldiers, for one thing. The soldier vote, all the political wisecracks here say, is going pretty far towards deciding who will be the next president. Also, they assert, the soldiers will not vote for another soldier. Pershing and Leonard Wood therefore won't do, if this sort of reasoning is correct.

But Johnson, many republicans here believe, can get the soldier vote, because he has won popularity among them by his fight to bring American boys out of Russia and Europe.

Evidence that this is true is submitted by his friends in the form of polls taken aboard returning transports. In half a dozen such polls, where the soldiers voted for anybody they fancied, Johnson's name led all the rest. The soldiers represented practically every state.

Again, it is whispered that Lodge, Knox and other conservative leaders are not so alarmed by Johnson's progressivism as they once were. They understand now, it is said, that he is not a radical, is in fact as much against "reds" as anybody in the party and is "forward looking" rather than bolshhevik.

Johnson's forte is Americanism. In his campaign for the nomination that is the thing he's counting on—that he is the man about whom will rally those American voters who want this nation to stick to traditional Americanism, as distinguished from the new order being preached by President Wilson and his supporters.

For Middle-Aged Men and Women

It isn't always on-coming old age that causes men and women in the middle years of life to slow up and feel a loss of ambition and energy. Weak or disordered kidneys do not filter waste matter and impurities out of the blood as they should, and backache, tired feeling, lameness, stiff joints, sore muscles, rheumatic pains, biliousness, irritation of the bladder, puffiness under the eyes or other symptom or ailment appears.

SHE WAS GREATLY BENEFITED "I feel so much better than I did before I got Foley Kidney Pills. They are fine and you may use my name in your advertisement. I wanted to help you, as your medicine helped me greatly. I truly hope some one else who needs it will get some of your medicine. Your Kidney Pills are wonderful. I cannot thank you enough for them." Laura Perry, 100 Twigg St., Augusta, Ga.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

strengthen the kidneys, stimulate the bladder and tone up the liver. They help the kidneys remove the accumulated poisons and soothe and heal the passages. When the kidneys and urinary tract are doing their work perfectly, the whole system is benefited and restored to health and strength. Why suffer when a reliable remedy can be so easily had?

Less Meat If Back And Kidneys Hurt

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, uric acid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarb, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water, drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease. (Adv.)

Feared He'd Have To Give Up Work

Hayes' Health Badly Run Down When He Began Taking Tanlac—Gains 18 Pounds

"I was worried all the time with the fear of getting to where I couldn't care a livelihood," said J. Hayes, a well known employe of the Seattle Street Railway company, living at the New Central hotel, Seattle, Wash., in a statement at the Bartell drug store, recently.

"But a few bottles of this Tanlac," he continued, "have turned things right about for me, for I am now enjoying as good health as I ever did. I had gotten in such bad shape on account of stomach trouble and rheumatism that I had to stop work. The rheumatism was so bad in my right arm and shoulder that I lost all use of them. I couldn't even pick up my tools while trying to work and I simply suffered agony. I ached so bad I could scarcely get out of bed in the morning and when I did manage to get on my feet I felt worse than on going to bed. My stomach was in such a bad fix that nothing agreed with me and at times I would have cramping pains that would almost double me up. I would blout all up with gas and have such a pressure around my heart that I would nearly suffocate. I was badly constipated and constantly taking something for this, as well as for my other troubles, but kept getting worse.

Finally I just got right down to where I couldn't work at all, and was worried because I could see no hope of getting any better. Why, at the time I got Tanlac I had been unable to work for a month and it looked like I was going to be disabled for good. I had dropped down in weight from one hundred and forty six pounds to one hundred and twenty eight. But since taking Tanlac I have gained eighteen pounds and am now up to one hundred and forty six. I could feel good results almost as soon as I began taking Tanlac, and it was only a few days until I was back on the job. I have taken four bottles now and all my ailments have left me, and I mean by that, that the rheumatism, stomach trouble, constipation and everything is gone. I can now pick up my tools and go about my work as only a strong, well man can. When morning comes I bounce out of bed like a sixteen year old and am just feeling fine all the time. Tanlac
