

FUND DRIVE FOR MEMORIAL FOR ROOSEVELT ON

The first shot in the drive for the fund for the Roosevelt Memorial was fired Monday with the issue of letters, setting forth the aims of the memorial association, and plans for the drive, to campaign leaders in all of the 141 school districts in Marion county.

Dear Friend:—There is a nation wide movement on foot to raise $5,000,000 as a Roosevelt memorial. With this money the home of Theodore Roosevelt, at Sagamore Hill, will be perpetuated and a monument will be inscribed to his memory in Washington, D. C.

It is not the object of the committee conducting this campaign to urge subscriptions; but rather to awaken the Rooseveltian spirit throughout the whole country, especially among the young.

Marion county's quota for this fund is $1760 and it is the earnest wish of the committee that this amount may be received by voluntary subscriptions.

It is especially desirable that some of the characteristics that make Theodore Roosevelt the greatest American of his day, be made familiar to the young and to this end we advise an hour be set aside in the schools during the week of the campaign for the purpose of setting forth his worth and achievements.

The headquarters of every religious denomination will receive published material for Sunday schools and we should like all local lodges, organizations and women's clubs, put a shoulder to the wheel and assist in this great move.

We are planning to place a campaign manager in every school district in Marion county and will furnish such literature as the state headquarters send out.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL COM. City Treasurer Sore; Gas Kills Office Flowers

Our city treasurer is quite a flower fancier. Yes indeed, Mr. Rice is as careful with the tender plants as the most attentive matron. But he's sore!

He fondly caressed the shiny leaves of a struggling plant of Wandering Jew, er, anyhow, that's what he called it.

Among the litter of long columns of figures, license pads, ink wells and broken pens, are a few beautiful objects. His flowers.

His care of the small plants as they battle bravely for existence in the foul atmosphere and darkness of the treasurer's office, is the talk of city hall workers.

RHODES CANDIDATES FROM "U" SELECTED

Paul Doney, son of Dr. Carl G. Doney, and Raymond Attebery, son of Mrs. J. A. Attebery, Everett, Wash., have been chosen by the faculty of the local university to represent Willamette in the Rhodes scholarship examination to be held in Portland October 31 and November 1, respectively.

The colleges of the state entitled to enter candidates were: University of Oregon, Willamette university, Reed college, Albany college, and McMinnville college.

Doney is a senior in the university and at present editor of the Willamette Collegian. He is a member of the Christian literary society and has been active in all phases of college life.

Attebery was a member of the class which graduated last June, but is a junior at present, having been delayed two years by service in the 162d infantry of this state.

The Rhodes scholarship, which pays the recipient 300 pounds a year, is granted for three years and takes the winner to the University of Oxford, London, England.

Oregon will send two scholars this year. One man will enter Oxford in January, 1920, and the other in October, 1920.

WILLAMETTE SCHOOL OF LAW STARTS WORK

Assistant Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle, dean of the Willamette law school, speaks highly of the prospects for the law school this term.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week were given over to registration. Actual instruction began at 5 p. m. Monday. The classes meet from 5 to 6 p. m.

The law school faculty for this year, composed of local attorneys, will be as follows:

Judge of the moot court, I. H. Van Winkle; criminal law and criminal procedure, bills and notes, Walter E. Keyes; evidence and code, Roy F. Shields; pleadings and probate law, George G. Bingham; contracts and domestic relations, I. van G. Martin; federal court practice and bankruptcy, John Bayne; partnerships and corporations, John H. Carson; real property and constitutional law, William H. Trindle; torts and equity, James G. Helzsel; Blackstone, agency and sales, Elmo S. White.

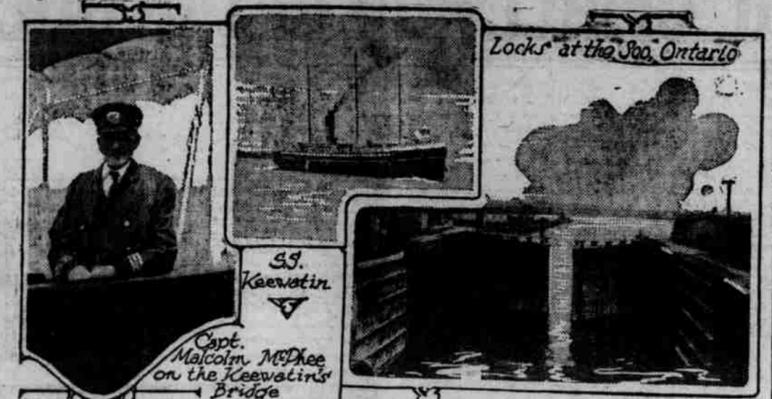

Pheasant Hunters in Polk Having Poor Luck, Report

Dallas, Or., Oct. 6.—Chinese pheasants are less numerous in the vicinity of Dallas this year than in many years past, due, according to hunters, to the cold rains of the late spring during the hatching season.

This county formerly was famous as a hunting ground for Chinese pheasants but each year the birds are becoming more scarce and a number of farmers in the southern part of the county have placed their farms in a game reserve to protect the pheasants.

HOME WATERS AFFORD LUXURIES OF OCEAN TRAVEL PLUS A PANORAMA OF SCENIC BEAUTY

That beckons in friendly fashion more often the boat dips and courtneys to some pretty island, for there are islands without number and they vary in extent from a mere speck holding aloft a lone pine, to a great Indian Reserve embracing hundreds of square miles.

Life on board the "Keewatin" and her sister ship, the "Assiniboia," is conducive to full enjoyment of the panoramas that nature unfolds.

FIRST SCHOLARSHIP IS WON BY PORTLAND BOY

Robert M. Gatke, member of the 1919 class, liberal arts college, and at present a senior in Kimball college of theology, has the honor of being the first student to receive a fellowship from Willamette university.

Among other duties, it will be Gatke's task to write a book on Willamette university in connection with the history of the northwest. The date for this work will be largely gathered in Salem and Portland, and the possessor of the fellowship will spend most of his time in the cities just named.

ASSOCIATION OF FRUIT GROWERS EXPANDING FAST

A meeting of apple growers was held at Sutherlin last Wednesday night by R. C. Paulus at present manager of the Salem Fruit Union and who will be the sales manager of the Oregon Growers Cooperative association.

The booth which the association had at the state fair attracted much favorable comment. A huge basket of fruit was featured, as "Oregon the Fruit Basket of the World."
