

NEW EQUIPMENT TO BE SUPPLIED NATIONAL GUARD

Within a week or ten days company M, Salem's Oregon National Guard company, will receive a complete new outfit from Uncle Sam, which consists of uniforms, shirts, blankets, kits, rifles, and everything that goes to make up the soldier's equipment.

With the federalization of the various state guards under the United States government, the Oregon National Guard and company M, will be paid by the government hereafter, and all details as to their equipment and so forth will be looked after by the war department.

The equipment now on the road to Salem is enough for 100 men. There are only 75 men now in company M, but work of recruiting its strength to 100 with strong, efficient men, is now in progress.

Work of renovating the interior of the armory here to accommodate and keep in fitting with the new equipment, is under the supervision of Lieut. Col. A. Tyrner Woolpert. New lockers and partitions are now being installed.

Legislature Provides No Expense Fund For Sheriff

There are no funds available under the 1919 statutes for expense money for the sheriff of Lake county, according to an opinion prepared by Assistant Attorney General Van Winkle for I. S. McKinney, district attorney of Lake county. Heretofore the sheriff has been allowed not to exceed $500 per year as expense money in addition to his $2500 yearly salary but the last legislature, either intentionally or otherwise, failed to include the expense money provision in the new law covering Lake county salaries.

"U" SERVICE MEN MEET

Ex-service men on the campus filed their first monthly certificate calling for soldiers' aid Wednesday. The certificate included expenses from September 15 to October 1, inclusive. These statements will be made out monthly and filed with the secretary of state, however, it is announced that no money will be available until January 1, 1920. Willamette has about 70 men entitled to soldiers' aid.

Old Lausanne Hall To Be Wrecked And Pieces Sold

In announcing the thousand dollar Carrier contribution to the Lausanne hall fund during the chapel exercises Wednesday morning, Or. Doney also informed the student body of the decision of the executive and building committees to commence immediate destruction of the present Lausanne hall building. These committees met Tuesday evening and decided to tear down Lausanne hall at once and sell the lumber and material by piece instead of attempting to sell the building as it stands.

SALEM PEOPLE ASKED TO GROW FLORAL GOWN

As Salem will be host to the Elks and Shriners next summer, the city is going to be asked to don its best dress—that of flowers. The Salem Floral society plans to carry on a campaign in the near future to induce every citizen to plant flowers, and maintain the city's position as one of the most beautiful on the coast.

They urge that perennials and bulbs be planted now, that they might be in bloom with the arrival of the distinguished guests of the Antlered herd and the Al Kador shrine.

The Salem Floral society will hold its next meeting the first Tuesday in November, when the election of officers will be held. Members of the board of directors will announce plans for next year's work, and for the proposed membership drive. Dues in the society is $1 a year.

METHODIST LAYMEN IN SALEM DISTRICT ORGANIZE A LEAGUE

As a result of the Methodist Episcopal conference held here last week, and the recommendation of Rev. T. B. Ford, district superintendent, the Methodist Laymen's league of the Salem district has been formed. Roy B. Cox, Oregon City, was elected president; L. S. Hopfield, McMinnville, vice-president and A. C. Bohmstedt, Salem, secretary-treasurer.

The object of this league shall be to enlist the laymen of the churches of the district in the activities of the church, and especially the evangelistic and other forward movements of the church, including the present Centenary world program; the introduction of better business methods in the church; to promote a closer cooperation between the churches of the district; to relieve the ministry of the responsibilities which properly belong to the laymen; to promote more and better church advertising; to promote social intercourse between the churches and in the neighborhood of the respective churches; to encourage and help maintain the minute men of the church, and to financially and in every other way back up an encouragement the young people of the churches in their work and activities.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, that we deplore and condemn as unbusinesslike and not in accordance with the high ideals and aims of the Methodist Episcopal church, to permit in our church publications advertisements of a questionable character, and that we request the conference of our church, now assembled, to take such action as shall purify from the publications in its jurisdiction all fake and objectionable advertising."

ARBITRATION OF STEEL STRIKE GOMPERS' PLAN

A. A. Landon, also one of the representatives of the public presented a proposal for a national labor truce to last three months. The truce would immediately terminate all strikes and lockouts.

A plan of labor adjustment prepared by Secretary of Labor Wilson was also presented. Wilson's plan provides for an arbitration board in each industry. Labor, the employers and the president would each appoint one-third of the members. All the board's decisions touching wages would be by unanimous vote and "morally binding" on employers and employees. Decisions of the board would be retroactive.

Another resolution proposed by the public group provides that employers shall recognize the right to organize.

Reduction in living costs should be the first step in any attempt to better industrial conditions, according to a resolution fathered by Charles E. Russell, socialist of the public group.

NEW YORK SHIPPING HALTS

New York, Oct. 9.—Shipping, with a few exceptions, was tied up along the waterfront today, as a result of the unauthorized walkout of longshoremen, which began Tuesday. Between thirty and thirty-five thousand men are on strike, it was estimated today.

CO-OPERATION OF SALEM IN STATE ADVERTISING

to him who waits died long ago. The philosophy of this day is that everything comes to him who waits—and rustles while he waits! Don't wait for conditions to better themselves. They've got a start now, help them along.

The havoc being wrought in all parts of the state through the shortage of help was pointed out by Mr. Bramwell. He said that millions of dollars' worth of fruit, grain and other produce had been lost this season because no help to harvest it could be obtained.

"Gentlemen, we have a wonderful mission to perform. We must get more laborers in the state. We cannot carry on the business here unless we get thousands more of men and women here who have muscle, determination and willingness to assist in developing our boundless resources.

"We don't want the hobo. We want the hard working farmer. The man who will take his wife and children by the hand and bring them in here, settle down and work. But they do not come because they do not know what possibilities await them here."

In this connection Vice-President Bramwell told the work of the State Chamber of Commerce in compiling a booklet of information to be sent to all parts of the world "explaining the God-given benefits obtained here." He said that each county court is being asked to appropriate $1000 toward its compilation and publication.

"In all parts of the United States, indeed, the world, there are thousands of persons clamoring for sunshine. We hear lots of the splendid sunshine of California. Why, we have California beat so far when it comes to sunshine that its shadow falls across our border!"

Here the club members applauded earnestly.

"Yet" the speaker continued, "these things go idly by while these poor sunshine starved souls die for lack of the beautiful radiance from the heavens. I tell you, the people of Oregon are asleep at the switch!

"It is our duty as American citizens. It is the duty we owe to the world to show to these peoples that they can live, that they can enjoy health and prosperity in Oregon."

He said that there are a million and a half of acres, untilled and untouched in Oregon. He said that the state must double its population to develop profitably these lands.

Many inquiries from the east about Oregon have rained in upon the State Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Bramwell, said.

"Some of the inquiries were ridiculous. They sought of Oregon untold possibilities. They have received false literature, infamous literature, of our state. Gentlemen, we don't have to lie about what we have here. It is almost too fabulous to tell the truth!"

Lamenting the fact that recognition by congress of the state's rights has been lacking, he declared that the State Chamber of Commerce is going to knock at the doors of congress until it makes proper obeisance to the state.

"We have pleaded long enough with the government," he cried. "Now we're going to demand! It was a demand that brought to Sumpter Valley the right to live."

"Work on the construction of a railroad through there had ceased. Supplies were wanting. The people were starving, or on the verge of starvation. Flu came along with its ravages. Nothing, apparently, could be done. Conditions were horrible. Their frantic pleas could not penetrate the deaf ear of our government."

"A committee met to shape a resolution asking aid which was to be sent to the government. Gentlemen, there are times when patience ceases to be a virtue. I told the committee to make demands—not pleas—for their rights. They did, and it was not long before a train steamed down into Sumpter Valley. Relief came.

"I tell you, men, we must stand together. Band together. Concentrate your brains. Chaos stares us in the face unless we battle against this sin and infamy."

"We are Americans, of American and for America. And by this virtue we are entitled to freedom and liberty. And for freedom and liberty in Oregon the State Chamber of Commerce is fighting!"

F. C. Bramwell, son of the vice-president of the State Chamber of Commerce, also spoke. The first requirements of Oregon, he said, are people, good roads and irrigation. He urged the consumption of Oregon products in Oregon. He strongly attacked the man of wealth who comes to the state, lives in "his own petty world," and makes no effort for the betterment of his community.

"I don't give a damn for the man of wealth," he declared, "who lives in your community, and who does no work for the benefit of the very ground on which he treads."

A resolution endorsing the advertising campaign of the State Chamber of Commerce was adopted at last night's meeting.

Report of the membership growth of the club during the last month was also made. Manager McCroskey said that 200 new members had been taken in during September, and that the club's membership now totals 569. A campaign for non-resident members will be waged by the club within the next ten days. In connection with this a permanent membership committee was appointed.

Following the business of the evening, Miss Ruth Johns, daughter of Justice Johns of the supreme court, and William Harris sang. A buffet lunch was then served.
