Fear of Return To Prison Made Johnson Murder

Portland, Ore. Oct. 23—Charles L. Johnson, aged 34, former Oregon State Penitentiary prisoner who killed a fellow inmate and was sentenced to life imprisonment, last week on a charge of murder, was granted a temporary parole last Saturday.

The parole is subject to certain conditions. Johnson is not to be released from the prison until his sentence is completed. He has been in prison since 1928, when he was convicted of the murder of an inmate.

Johnson is serving a life sentence for the murder of an inmate at the Oregon State Penitentiary in Salem.

VARSITY TO INVADE PORTLAND COLLEGE ARENA ON SATURDAY

As a result of the decision of the Army and Navy to meet in the Pacific Coliseum on Saturday afternoon, Portland College will have a unique opportunity to see a fine football game.

The Navy will play at 2:30 p.m. and the Army at 4:30 p.m. Both games are expected to attract large crowds.

The Army has not played a game in the Pacific Coliseum since 1927 when it beat Washington, 12-0. Portland College has a fine home field and the Army will have a hard time finding a better place.

The Navy will also play a game at 2:30 p.m. and the Army at 4:30 p.m. Both games are expected to attract large crowds.
